Re: Board Conflicts and Investment Banker

Dear Sirs and Madam:

We write to you again to express our frustration with the continuing dysfunction of the board of directors (the “Board”) of Trinity Place Holdings, Inc. (the “Company”).

We believe Mark Ettenger's purported compensation package is a new low for this Company. We believe this outsized pay package, in conjunction with his insider status, and his being (according to SEC filings) a paid Marcato Capital Management, LLC consultant, is a poster child for poor corporate governance and entrenched management.

Further, we cannot understand how once Alan Cohen asserted his right to object to the engagement that the Board did not immediately rescind the ultra vires contract. Board members willfully approving an ultra vires contract may well be personally liable for payments made under such contract.

Also, we have concerns that good faith offers from prospective purchasers and developers are being met with overly cool and lethargic responses from the Board. At least some of these offers may contain elements of interim or permanent financing and/or management services as well as sale opportunities. We will be vigilant for any signs that members of the Board are unduly influenced by outside forces in choosing how to deal with these offers. In particular, while we are not making any accusations, we are concerned about the possibility of “horse trading” where we have directors with different prerogatives and interests (such as where one director controls another’s compensation). In any case, we wish to see better internal oversight.

We would hope that the Board could be sufficiently diligent to correct these corporate governance failures.

Accordingly, we urge the Board to promptly retain an investment banker to run a formal process to vet any proposals already received and to attract alternative proposals. We strongly believe that such a banker would provide much-needed expertise and contacts, and most importantly provide real independent review and steer the Board away from all potential and actual conflicts of interest.

Very truly yours,
