[Appendix to the Notice of General Meeting of Shareholders]

Business Report for the 99th Fiscal Period

(Fiscal year from April 1, 2005 to March 31, 2006)

1. Brief Business Review

Before reporting the business review, we would like to express our profound apologies to shareholders and customers regarding kerosene fan heater-related accidents that occurred in 2005. We would also convey gratitude to the many individuals who assisted in the inspection, maintenance and recall of affected models.

Through the cooperation of Matsushita's business partners and customers, the Company has implemented several emergency initiatives to prevent a reoccurrence, including inspection, maintenance and recalls of kerosene fan heaters that the Company manufactured between 1985 and 1992.

The Company will continue efforts, led by the Kerosene Fan Heaters Recall Affairs Division, aimed at resolving the problem, including a comprehensive review of product safety standards.

(1) Matsushita Group Business Progress and Results during the Period

The global economy in the fiscal year ended March 31, 2006 was favorable overall, with strong growth in the United States and China, as well as a moderate economic recovery in Japan. The electronics industry as a whole continued steady growth, with strong demand for IT-related products and rapid market expansion in flat-panel TVs, in addition to an upturn in the components and devices industry. However, a severe business environment continued due mainly to rising raw materials costs and price declines, mainly in digital audiovisual (AV) products, caused by ever-intensified global competition.

Under these circumstances, Matsushita viewed fiscal 2006, the second year of the mid-term management plan Leap Ahead 21, ending March 31, 2007, as a crucial year in establishing growth at each business domain company. To achieve the goals of this management plan, the Company implemented growth strategies and strengthened management structures, resulting in a certain degree of success.

Matsushita aggressively launched and promoted a new series of V-products to capture top shares in high-volume markets and make a significant contribution to overall business results. Sales of these products increased not only in plasma TVs, digital cameras and other cutting-edge digital AV equipment, but also in home appliances, led by revolutionary refrigerators, featuring top-unit compressors to increase internal capacity, tilted-drum washing machines with efficient heat-pump dryers and air conditioners with automatic filter cleaning and dust removal functions.

The Company also continued its focus on simultaneous global product introductions in digital AV and other product categories to continually expand priority businesses. A good example of success through this strategy is the plasma TV business. Matsushita has captured high market shares in Japan, the United States and Europe through the simultaneous introduction of plasma TVs in these regions. To further establish the Company's position as the industry leader, Matsushita announced the world's largest full high-definition (HD) plasma display. At 103 inches, this product demonstrates Matsushita's unparalleled technologies in the plasma TV field.

Regarding capital investment, the Company maintained its policy of concentrating investments into strategic areas. In fiscal 2006, these included a new Plasma Display Panel (PDP) factory in Amagasaki, Japan, which commenced operations in September 2005, Matsushita Hangzhou Industrial Park for home appliances in China (October 2005) and a new factory for state-of-the-art system LSIs in Uozu, Japan.

Through collaboration with Matsushita Electric Works, Ltd. (MEW) in April 2005, Matsushita reorganized overlapping businesses and sales channels in such areas as electrical supplies, building equipment and home appliances. The Company also launched Collaboration V-products such as bathroom systems, modular kitchen systems and air purifiers, while utilizing MEW marketing channels to increase sales of air conditioners.

Aiming to reinforce its management structures, the Company has made all-out efforts to reduce materials costs and other expenses. These initiatives, including company-wide cost reduction activities, have contributed to enhanced profitability, despite a severe management environment. Matsushita also carried out selection and concentration of management resources, restructuring at various locations and other reforms within each business domain company.

Table of Contents

Meanwhile, reflecting its policy of shareholder-oriented management, Matsushita has proactively increased return to shareholders. Furthermore, the Company established a new policy regarding large-scale purchases of the Company's shares, whereby Matsushita requires prospective large-scale purchasers to provide sufficient information and grant Matsushita's Board of Directors a sufficient period of time to assess the information provided. The Board of Directors would then assess and examine the proposed large-scale purchase, and form and disclose its opinion. In addition, the Board of Directors may negotiate terms with prospective large-scale purchasers or offer alternative plans to shareholders.

Through these efforts, consolidated group sales for fiscal 2006 increased 2.1%, to ¥8,894.3 billion, from ¥8,713.6 billion in the previous fiscal year. Explaining fiscal 2006 results, the Company cited sales gains in digital products, especially V-products.

Regarding earnings, negative factors such as ¥37.0 billion in expenses associated with the implementation of early retirement programs and expenses of ¥24.9 billion related to the aforementioned kerosene fan heater recall were more than offset by restructuring effects, comprehensive cost reduction efforts and a gain related to the liquidation of a consolidated subsidiary, MEI Holding Inc. (MHI). These factors resulted in a pre-tax income of ¥371.3 billion, an increase of 50.4% from the previous year's ¥246.9 billion. Net income for the full fiscal year totaled ¥154.4 billion, an increase of 164.0% from ¥58.5 billion in the previous year.

Departmental Activities

Matsushita's products are classified into six categories comprising: AVC Networks, which includes video and audio equipment as well as information and communications equipment; Home Appliances; Components and Devices, including general electronic components and semiconductors; JVC; MEW and PanaHome; and Other, including factory automation (FA) equipment and industrial equipment.

A summary of sales results for each product category for fiscal 2006 is as follows:

AVC Networks

Sales in this category increased 3.6% to ¥3,688.3 billion ($31,524 million) compared with ¥3,558.8 billion in the previous fiscal year.

Video and audio equipment

Sales of video and audio equipment increased 6.3% to ¥1,576.5 billion ($13,474 million) compared with ¥1,482.6 billion in the previous fiscal year.

In fiscal 2006, significant sales increases were recorded in digital AV equipment including flat-panel TVs and digital cameras, global demand for which is rapidly increasing as a result of a demand shift from analog to digital products.

To meet increased demand for flat-panel TVs in Japan and overseas, Matsushita launched new products in its VIERA series of plasma TVs and liquid crystal display (LCD) TVs that boast outstanding picture quality, resulting in significant sales gains. In plasma TVs, Matsushita achieved particular success in reducing power consumption, while developing the world's first 103-inch full HD plasma display.

The LUMIX series of digital cameras also enjoyed market acclaim for features that utilize Matsushita's optical image stabilization, optical zoom and other advanced technologies. As a result, Matsushita secured a leading position in the domestic market, as well as overseas sales growth, particularly in Europe.

Matsushita strengthened its product lineups in the DIGA series of DVD recorders with new models compatible with HD broadcasting. The Company maintained its top share in global markets with products that incorporate universal design concepts and offer enhanced operability by drastically shortening startup times for electronic program guide display and recording functions.

Sales of Secure Digital (SD) Memory Cards also increased, particularly for digital AV products and mobile phone applications. This result reflects growing demand for a bridge media connecting products equipped with video and audio recording and playback functions.

Edgar Filing: MATSUSHITA ELECTRIC INDUSTRIAL CO LTD - Form 6-K

In the future, Matsushita will strengthen products under the 3D value chain concept, encompassing digital TV (DTV), DVD and SD-related products. The Company will also expand HD product lineups as well as HD recording media such as Blu-ray discs. Matsushita aims to expand its businesses and achieve sustainable growth through aggressive marketing and simultaneous global product introductions.

Information and communications equipment

Sales of information and communications equipment increased 1.7% to ¥2,111.8 billion ($18,050 million) compared with ¥2,076.2 billion in the previous fiscal year, due mainly to steady sales in PCs and peripherals and automotive electronics equipment, which were sufficient to offset sales declines in mobile phones for overseas markets.

Table of Contents

In information equipment, sales increased for the Company's notebook PCs, which continued to be popular among business professionals for durability and lightweight design. In peripheral accessories, shipments increased for the industry's thinnest (9.5mm) DVD Super-Multi Drive. In automotive electronics, Matsushita recorded continued strong domestic sales in the Strada series of car navigation systems, which offer unparalleled picture quality for terrestrial digital broadcasting. Sales of in-vehicle Electronic Toll Collection (ETC) terminals also increased.

In communications equipment, despite increased sales of third-generation (3G) mobile phones in Japan, overall sales of mobile phones declined, primarily a result of fierce price competition overseas. Sales gains were recorded in fixed-line communications equipment, including telephones and facsimile machines, due in large part to robust sales of new video intercom products, the world's first to feature wireless handsets with color monitors.

Going forward, Matsushita will continue to develop new products, services and solutions that provide safety and security, comfort and convenience in the home, office, car and outdoors.

Home Appliances

Sales in this category increased 2.3% to ¥1,183.1 billion ($10,112 million) compared with ¥1,156.5 billion in the previous fiscal year. Sales gains were recorded through unique products such as tilted-drum washer/dryers and air conditioners utilizing proprietary technologies.

Rising awareness about environmental protection and personal health led to increased sales in home appliances products such as energy-efficient tilted-drum washer/dryers and combination steamer/microwave ovens that remove excess fat and salt during the cooking process.

In air conditioners and refrigerators, Matsushita introduced a new refrigerator with 50% more freezer space and air conditioners with automatic filter cleaning and dust removal functions. These and other new products were well-received in the domestic market. Matsushita also effectively utilized MEW's sales channels to generate sales growth of air-conditioners in Japan.

In housing equipment and systems, Matsushita recorded double-digit sales growth by expanding its lineups of water heating systems, which utilize CO₂ as a natural refrigerant and boast the industry's top heat exchange efficiency.

Despite a slump in domestic housing starts, sales of fluorescent lamps and ventilating fans increased due to the introduction of new products and further business expansion overseas.

Looking ahead, Matsushita will achieve increased growth and profitability by augmenting production bases, mainly in China and Asia, and promoting localization of product development and materials procurement. Matsushita will continue to create value-added products through proprietary differentiated technologies, environmentally friendly design and the incorporation of universal design concepts.

Components and Devices

Sales in this category decreased 2.3% to ¥1,086.6 billion ($9,287 million) compared with ¥1,112.5 billion in the previous fiscal year. In general, sales were up on a units basis as a result of rising demand for digital equipment and automotive electronics equipment. On a value basis, however, continued severe price declines resulted in lower overall sales compared to the previous year.

In general electronic components, sales gains were recorded in tuners for digital TVs, weight sensors for airbags and new multilayer printed circuit boards, thereby leading to overall increased sales.

As a result of strong demand for digital AV products, Matsushita recorded sales growth in system LSIs for flat-panel TVs and image sensors for digital cameras. Overall semiconductor sales declined, however, due to decreased demand for mobile phones and price declines. During the fiscal year under review, Matsushita accelerated development of digital products featuring a new Integrated Platform. Matsushita was also the world's first company in the consumer field to begin mass production of system LSIs using 65-nanometer process technology.

In primary batteries, sales growth was achieved with the introduction of AAA Oxryde dry batteries and further expansion of products for overseas markets. Meanwhile, lithium ion batteries recorded steady sales, as new products for mobile communications equipment applications received market acclaim.

For the future, Matsushita will continue to develop unique technologies for components and devices to establish a leading position in core fields. At the same time, Matsushita will pursue synergies between finished products and components and devices.

Table of ContentsMEW and PanaHome

Sales in this category edged up 0.8% to ¥1,570.8 billion ($13,426 million) compared with ¥1,559.0 billion in the previous fiscal year.

MEW recorded robust sales in various key areas, particularly electrical construction products such as lighting and wiring equipment, and automation controls for applications in mobile phones and automotive electronics. In building products, Collaboration V-products, such as bathroom systems and modular furniture systems for home theaters, captured market acclaim. Meanwhile, in electronic and plastic materials businesses, sales in electronic devices were up from the previous year. Products in this area include environmentally friendly lead-free materials for heat resistant multilayer printed circuit boards. Aesthetic products, fitness machines and other home appliances also recorded favorable results.

MEW will integrate technologies in home appliances, information equipment and building products to create new products and applications. MEW also strives to provide total solutions for comfortable living, focusing on energy efficiency, the environment, security and healthcare. In addition, MEW will focus efforts on further expanding the home remodeling market through its building products businesses. MEW will accelerate overseas businesses primarily in electrical construction materials and building products by strengthening operations in China and enhancing home environment solutions.

PanaHome recorded overall sales gains, due mainly to favorable sales in detached housing. In the future, PanaHome will implement product strategies based on the Eco-Life concept, while promoting safety, security, health, comfort and energy efficiency.

JVC

Sales in this category decreased 2.6% to ¥699.0 billion ($5,974 million) compared with ¥717.8 billion in the previous fiscal year. Sales gains in the software & media business were offset by sluggish sales in AV equipment, industrial-use AV equipment and devices, resulting in overall decreased sales.

Sales gains were recorded in AV equipment such as LCD TVs, rear projection TVs and camcorders, including the Everio series of compact hard disk camcorders. Overall sales fell below the previous year's level, however, due to weak sales of DVD recorders and audio equipment. Sales were also down in industrial-use AV equipment, as a result of sluggish demand for security equipment in Japan. Moreover, sales in devices declined from the previous year, although sales increases were recorded in the software & media business, due to hit songs from leading artists.

To enhance competitiveness and boost sales, JVC is reviewing product development processes, developing unique products in core businesses, such as displays and camcorders, and reinforcing marketing strategies.

Other

Sales in this category increased 9.4% to ¥666.5 billion ($5,697 million) compared with ¥609.0 billion in the previous fiscal year.

In the expanding component mounting machine market, Matsushita recorded significant sales growth in products such as high-speed modular mounting machines that boast the industry's highest productivity.

In industrial equipment, new products in fully digital CO₂/MAG automatic welding machines and robots were well received by the market.

In the future, Matsushita will maintain growth with products such as a new Integrated Process Assembly Cell (IPAC), the first truly modular line to combine electronic component and semiconductor mounting into one platform. In industrial equipment, Matsushita will introduce new welding equipment and other high-value-added products that are easy to use.

Table of ContentsResearch and Development

During the fiscal year under review, Matsushita executed a number of initiatives to accelerate R&D, aimed at the realization of a ubiquitous networking society and coexistence with the global environment. Specifically, the Company promoted key development themes, concentrated technology resources and reinforced intellectual properties strategies.

The key development themes during the fiscal year were: (1) development of the world's largest full HD PDP using ultra-large panel formation technology. Boasting more than 2 million pixels (1,920 x 1,080), the panel achieves consistent and uniform discharge; (2) development of a new Integrated Platform for home AV applications. This platform allows viewers of digital HD broadcasts to simultaneously watch two channels and also record programs in standard definition formats; (3) development of a mobile phone that allows users to view approximately three hours of One Segment terrestrial digital TV broadcasts, using power-saving technology; (4) development of a system LSI for high-speed home power line communication applications. This component allows existing home power lines to be used for the simultaneous transmission of HD video, IP telephony and data transmission as a home network; and (5) development of a tilted-drum washer/dryer that uses no heater or water during the dry cycle. This washer/dryer, the world's first to incorporate heat-pump technology, completes a cycle of washing and drying using roughly half the power, water and time required for conventional models.

Additionally, Matsushita took a number of steps to boost the efficiency of R&D activities from the perspective of overall optimization. Specifically, the Company reinforced technology management by aligning company-wide technology strategies and creating a shared roadmap, while other initiatives included a development platform to enable the sharing, accumulation and reuse of technologies and innovations in future R&D processes.

R&D expenditures during the year totaled ¥564.8 billion.

Capital Investment*

During the fiscal year under review, Matsushita primarily implemented capital investment to increase production capacity in strategic business areas such as semiconductors and digital AV equipment, particularly plasma TVs. Capital investment (excluding intangibles) totaled ¥345.8 billion in fiscal 2006.

Principal capital investment consisted of PDP manufacturing facilities for Matsushita Plasma Display Panel Company Ltd. at Plant No. 3 (Amagasaki, Japan), and in semiconductor manufacturing facilities at the Uozu Factory of the Semiconductor Company, also in Japan.

* Reconciliation of the Non U.S. GAAP capital investment figures

The Company defines capital investment as purchases of property, plant and equipment on an accrual basis which reflects the effects of timing differences between acquisition dates and payment dates. The Company has included the information concerning capital investment because its management uses this indicator to manage its capital expenditures and it believes that such indicator is useful to shareholders to present accrual basis capital investments in addition to the cash basis information in its consolidated statement of cash flows. The following table shows a reconciliation of capital investment to purchases of property, plant and equipment and intangible and other assets.

	Fiscal 2006 Results (in billions of yen)
Purchases of property, plant and equipment shown as capital expenditures in consolidated statement of cash flows	356.8

(2) Future Prospects and Challenges for the Matsushita Group

The global economic outlook for fiscal 2007, ending March 31, 2007, remains uncertain, due to various factors such as rising crude oil and raw materials prices, and risks associated with a stronger yen, which may occur as the result of budget and trade deficits in the United States. Regarding overall industry trends, although significant growth is not expected, competition will become increasingly severe as demand continues to shift from analog to digital products.

In fiscal 2007, the final year of the mid-term management plan Leap Ahead 21, Matsushita will make group-wide efforts to further accelerate growth strategies and strengthen management structures.

Matsushita will place particular emphasis on V-products, which feature black-box technologies, and are essential to the Company's growth strategy. In fiscal 2007, the Company expects sales of ¥1.8 trillion in a total of 82 product categories. To achieve this, Matsushita will carry out intensive marketing campaigns that focus on product functions and features. Furthermore, Matsushita will expand the scope of simultaneous global introductions in terms of both products and regions. Through these and other initiatives, Matsushita aims to increase market share and solidify its competitive position in global markets.

Matsushita will also strengthen overseas operations, which serve as a growth engine for the entire Matsushita Group. The Company will select products and sales channels according to specific strategies in each region or country, and concentrate management resources into such. Regarding the growing BRICs (Brazil, Russia, India, China) markets, the Company will concentrate efforts on establishing comprehensive business infrastructures. In the high-growth China market, Matsushita will promote comprehensive initiatives, including aggressively launching V-products, augmenting sales to large retail stores and promoting the localization of management.

Regarding capital investment, Matsushita will continue to focus upon strategic businesses. In PDPs, the Company announced the construction of a fourth domestic factory, one of the world's largest such manufacturing operations, in Amagasaki, Japan, where operations are scheduled to commence in fiscal 2008. Including the new factory, Matsushita will increase annual production capacity of PDPs to 11.5 million units by fiscal 2009, responding to rapidly expanding global demand.

Matsushita strives to achieve further success through collaboration with MEW by integrating the components and devices and black-box technologies of both companies, in addition to comprehensive utilization of sales channels and augmented overseas businesses.

In order to further strengthen management structures, Matsushita implemented the Next Cell Production Project, which will facilitate a more flexible manufacturing structure. In fiscal 2007, the Company intends to further take advantage of information technology (IT) in promoting large-scale inventory reduction activities. Meanwhile, through the Corporate Cost Busters Project, the Company will continue eliminating redundancies throughout all areas of business to enhance profitability.

Matsushita thanks all of its shareholders for their continued support.

 - In fiscal 2005, Matsushita recorded an increase in sales due mainly to favorable sales in video and audio equipment in AVC Networks, as well as increased sales in Home Appliances. The Company also recorded a gain in profits as a result of sales increases, and various cost reduction initiatives, as well as the positive effects of business restructuring.
 - In fiscal 2006 (the latest fiscal period), Matsushita achieved increased sales, primarily in the AVC Networks category. (8) Subsequent Event

[Shareholder-oriented Management Initiatives]

On April 28, 2006, the Board of Directors approved plans to proactively provide returns to shareholders and continue the policy toward large-scale purchases of Matsushita Electric Industrial Co., Ltd. shares, with the aim of implementing its policy of shareholder-oriented management.

Specifically, Matsushita plans to increase total cash dividends per share for fiscal 2007, ending March 31, 2007, to ¥30, compared with fiscal 2006 cash dividends of ¥20 per share. Regarding share repurchases, the Company plans to repurchase up to 50 million shares of its own stock for a maximum of ¥100 billion.

Under the basic philosophy that shareholders should make final decisions regarding large-scale purchases of Matsushita shares, sufficient information should be provided through the Board of Directors to shareholders if a large-scale purchase is to be conducted. Under the above-mentioned basic philosophy, the Board of Directors decided to continue its policy toward large-scale purchasers who intend to acquire 20% or more of all voting rights of the Company. This policy requires that (i) a large-scale purchaser provides sufficient information to the Board of Directors before a large-scale purchase is to be conducted and (ii) after all required information is provided, the Board of Directors should be allowed a sufficient period of time during which it will assess, examine, negotiate, form an opinion and seek alternatives. In the event of non-compliance with such rules by a prospective large-scale purchaser, the Board of Directors may take countermeasures to protect the interest of all shareholders.

For further details, please see the press release, regarding the Enhancement of Shareholder Value (ESV) Plan, issued on April 28, 2006, entitled Matsushita Announces Continuation of Policy toward Large-scale Purchases of Company's Shares.

The Company accounts for debt and equity securities in accordance with Statement of Financial Accounting Standards (SFAS) No. 115, Accounting for Certain Investments in Debt and Equity Securities. Investments in available-for-sale securities

Market valuation method based on the fiscal year-end closing market price, etc. (The difference, net of tax, between acquisition cost and carrying market value of other securities is reported as a separate component of shareholders' equity. The cost of other securities sold is computed based on the average cost method.)

(4) Method of depreciation of tangible fixed assets

Depreciation is computed primarily using the declining balance method.

(5) Method of amortization of intangible assets

Any shortfall in the provision for employee retirement and severance benefits arising from the difference between accumulated benefit obligation (obligation after deducting future salary increase from projected benefit obligation) and the fair value of pension fund assets is recognized additionally in the amount for minimum pension liability adjustments.

Unrecognized prior service cost (benefit) is amortized on a straight-line basis over the average remaining service period of employees.

If the unrecognized actuarial gains or losses exceed the greater of 10% of projected benefit obligation or the fair value of 10% of pension fund assets, the excess amount is amortized on a straight-line basis based on the average remaining service period of employees at the time such actuarial gains or losses arose.
