United Technologies planned acquisition of Rockwell Collins

Q&A for Rockwell Collins employees who participate in the Non-Qualified Retirement Savings Plan

Below are some common questions and answers regarding how our intended acquisition by United Technologies Corp. (UTC) will impact your Non-Qualified Retirement Savings Plan.

NON-QUALIFIED RETIREMENT SAVINGS PLAN

Q1. I participate in the Rockwell Collins 2005 Non-Qualified Retirement Savings Plan (2005 NQSP). Will my account balance be paid to me when the transaction closes?

A. Amounts you deferred under the 2005 NQSP will be paid according to your change of control election on file (either to receive a single lump-sum payment upon a change of control or to continue your existing annual distribution elections). If you failed to make a change of control election, the default rule will apply and your account balance will be distributed to you when the transaction closes. The closing of the transaction will be a change in control for purposes of the 2005 NQSP, and all amounts deferred by you under the 2005 NQSP that are payable in a lump sum upon a change in control will be paid to you within 45 days after the closing date of the transaction. If you do not remember completing a change of control election or did not retain a copy of your election form, email Violette Nivera at violette.nivera@rockwellcollins.com or call 829.3251 or 714.929.3251 to determine how your account will be paid to you.

Q2. I will be getting a lump sum payment of my 2005 NQSP account balance when the transaction closes. Can I change this election?

A. You are permitted to change when and how your account balance will be distributed to you as long as the change complies with the requirements of Section 409A of the Internal Revenue Code (409A). 409A requires that any change:

must be made at least 12 months before the originally scheduled payment date; can't go into effect until at least 12 months after the change is made; and must specify a new payment date that is at least 5 years (and not more than 15 years) after the originally scheduled payment date.

For example, you could elect to receive your account balance paid in installments starting on the fifth anniversary of the date the transaction closes. However, this change will not be permitted under 409A, and your election will be disregarded, if the transaction closes within one year of the date you make your election.

If you want to make a change, we recommend you do so as soon as possible to increase the likelihood that your change will be effective. Email Violette Nivera at violette.nivera@rockwellcollins.com or call 829.3251 or 714.929.3251 to obtain a new change of control election form. As noted above, if the transaction closes prior to the first anniversary of the transaction, any change you make will be disregarded.

Q3. Suppose I make the election described in Q2 to receive my 2005 NQSP account balance on the 15th anniversary of a change of control in a lump sum and the transaction closes 13 months after I made my election. I then retire two years later at age 55 and had elected to receive my account balance in ten installments. Will my retirement installment payments be delayed?

A. No. The fact that you elected a 15-year delay in connection with a change of control doesn't disrupt what happens on retirement, if that happens sooner. However, if you had elected a 5-year delay and a lump sum payment and remain employed through both the change in control date and the fifth anniversary of such date you would get a lump sum payment on the 5th anniversary of the transaction. If you elected a 10-year delay with a lump sum payment upon a change of control and then retire 7 years later and begin receiving installment payments, any unpaid installments would be paid on the 10th anniversary of the transaction date. In order to avoid earlier than expected payment of your account on a change of control, consider electing to defer the payment for 15 years and elect to receive installment payments over 10 years.

Q4. I chose to continue my existing distribution elections and will not be getting a lump sum payment of my 2005 NQSP account balance when the transaction closes. Can I change this election?

A. No, 409A does not allow you to add a change in control as a payment event if you previously elected not to receive payment upon a change in control.

Q5. I participated in the Rockwell Collins Non-Qualified Savings Plan (Pre-2005 NQSP). Will my account balance be paid to me when the transaction closes?

A. Amounts you have under the Pre-2005 NQSP will not be paid out as a result of a change of control. Upon your retirement or termination of employment, amounts will be paid out to you in a lump sum, provided that you may make a one-time irrevocable election to receive payment of such amounts in up to 10 annual installments. This election must be made at least one year prior to your retirement or termination of employment date. If you wish to change your distribution election, log on to Fidelity's Netbenefits® website at netbenefits.fidelity.com and click on Distribution elections using the Quick Links on the right side of the page.

Q6. I participated in the Pre-2005 NQSP and the 2005 NQSP. How can I find out what my account balance is under each of these plans?

A. To determine your account balance in the Pre-2005 NQSP and 2005 NQSP, log on to Fidelity's Netbenefits® website at netbenefits.fidelity.com and click on RC NON QUAL. On the Summary tab scroll down to Show details under Sources.

Safe Harbor Statement

This communication contains statements, including statements regarding the proposed acquisition of Rockwell Collins by United Technologies, that are forward-looking statements as defined in the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995. Actual results may differ materially from those projected as a result of certain risks and uncertainties, including but not limited to: the ability of Rockwell Collins and United Technologies to receive the required regulatory approvals for the proposed acquisition of Rockwell Collins by United Technologies (and the risk that such approvals may result in the imposition of conditions that could adversely affect the combined company or the expected benefits of the transaction) and approval of Rockwell Collins' shareowners and to satisfy the other conditions to the closing of the transaction on a timely basis or at all; the occurrence of events that may give rise to a right of one or both of the parties to terminate the merger agreement; negative effects of the announcement or the consummation of the transaction on the market price of United Technologies' and/or Rockwell Collins' common stock and/or on their respective businesses, financial conditions, results of operations and financial performance; risks relating to the value of the United Technologies' shares to be issued in the transaction, significant transaction costs and/or unknown liabilities; the possibility that the anticipated benefits from the proposed transaction cannot be realized in full or at all or may take longer to realize than expected; risks associated with third party contracts containing consent and/or other provisions that may be triggered by the proposed transaction; risks associated with transaction-related litigation; the possibility that costs or difficulties related to the integration of Rockwell Collins' operations with those of United Technologies will be greater than expected; the outcome of legally required consultation with employees, their works councils or other employee representatives; and the ability of Rockwell Collins and the combined company to retain and hire key personnel. There can be no assurance that the proposed acquisition or any other transaction described above will in fact be consummated in the manner described or at all. For additional information on identifying factors that may cause actual results to vary materially from those stated in forward-looking statements, see the reports of United Technologies and Rockwell Collins on Forms 10-K, 10-Q and 8-K filed with or furnished to the SEC from time to time. These forward-looking statements are made only as of the date hereof and the company assumes no obligation to update any forward-looking statement.

Additional Information

In connection with the proposed transaction, United Technologies will file a registration statement on Form S-4, which will include a document that serves as a prospectus of United Technologies and a proxy statement of Rockwell Collins (the proxy statement/prospectus), and each party will file other documents regarding the proposed transaction with the SEC. INVESTORS AND SECURITY HOLDERS ARE URGED TO READ THE PROXY STATEMENT/PROSPECTUS AND OTHER RELEVANT DOCUMENTS FILED WITH THE SEC WHEN THEY BECOME AVAILABLE, BECAUSE THEY WILL CONTAIN IMPORTANT INFORMATION. A definitive proxy statement/prospectus will be sent to Rockwell Collins shareowners. Investors and security holders will be able to obtain the registration statement and the proxy statement/prospectus free of charge from the SEC's website or from United Technologies or Rockwell Collins. The documents filed by United Technologies with the SEC may be obtained free of charge at United Technologies' website at www.utc.com or at the SEC's website at www.sec.gov. These documents may also be obtained free of charge from United Technologies by requesting them by mail at UTC Corporate Secretary, 10 Farm Springs Road, Farmington, CT, 06032, by telephone at 1-860-728-7870 or by email at corpsec@corphq.utc.com.
