NOTE A - NATURE OF BUSINESS, GOING CONCERN, AND PRESENTATION

Basis of Presentation

The accompanying consolidated condensed financial statements have been prepared in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles for interim financial information. Accordingly, they do not include all of the information and footnotes required by generally accepted accounting principles for complete financial statements. In the opinion of management, all adjustments (consisting of normal recurring accruals) considered necessary in order to make the financial statements not misleading have been included. Results for the three and nine months ended December 31, 2011 are not necessarily indicative of the results that may be expected for the year ending March 31, 2012. For further information, refer to the financial statements and footnotes thereto included in the Novo Energies Corporation annual report on Form 10-K for the year ended March 31, 2011.

Nature of Business

Novo Energies Corporation (“Novo”) was involved in the business of exploiting new technologies for the production of energy. In May 2011, Novo entered into discussions to acquire Immunovative Therapies, Ltd. a wholly owned subsidiary of Immunovative Clinical Research Inc. a clinical research company seeking various business strategies. On December 12, 2011, Novo entered into a license agreement with Immunovative pursuant to which Novo received an immediate exclusive and worldwide license to commercialize all product candidates (the “Licensed Products”) based on Immunovative’s current and future patents and a patent in-licensed from the University of Arizona. Immunovative is developing a new class of immunotherapy drugs designed to harness the power of the immune system to treat cancer. As such, Novo has abandoned its endeavors into the energy business.

Going Concern

As indicated in the accompanying financial statements, Novo has incurred cumulative net operating losses of $7,722,333 since inception of the development stage and has negative working capital of $1,309,366. Management’s plans include the raising of capital through equity markets to fund future operations, and the generating of revenue through its business. Failure to raise adequate capital and generate adequate sales revenues could result in Novo having to curtail or cease operations. Additionally, even if Novo does raise sufficient capital to support its operating expenses or generate adequate revenues, there can be no assurances that the revenues will be sufficient to enable it to develop business to a level where it will generate profits and cash flows from operations. These matters raise substantial doubt about Novo’s ability to continue as a going concern. However, the accompanying financial statements have been prepared on a going concern basis, which contemplates the realization of assets and satisfaction of liabilities in the normal course of business. These financial statements do not include any adjustments relating to the recovery of the recorded assets or the classification of the liabilities that might be necessary should Novo be unable to continue as a going concern.

Use of Estimates

The preparation of the financial statements in conformity with U.S. generally accepted accounting principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

NOTE A - NATURE OF BUSINESS, GOING CONCERN, AND PRESENTATION (CONTINUED)

Net Loss Per Common Share

Novo computes per share amounts in accordance with ASC Topic 260 Earnings per Share (EPS) which requires presentation of basic and diluted EPS. Basic EPS is computed by dividing the income (loss) available to Common Stockholders by the weighted-average number of common shares outstanding for the period. Diluted EPS is based on the weighted-average number of shares of Common Stock and Common Stock equivalents outstanding during the periods. A fully diluted calculation was not presented since the results would be anti-dilutive.

NOTE B – LICENSE AGREEMENT

On December 12, 2011, Novo entered into a License Agreement (the “License Agreement”) with Immunovative, an Israeli Corporation, pursuant to which Novo received an immediate exclusive and worldwide license to commercialize all the Licensed Products based on Immunovative’s current and future patents and a patent in-licensed from the University of Arizona. The license granted covers two experimental products for the treatment of cancer in clinical development called AlloStim™ and Allo Vax™ (“Licensed Products”).

In exchange for the license, Novo has undertaken an obligation to pay Immunovative $10 million from the date of the License Agreement until the date that is two years after receiving notice from a regulatory agency in the US, Canada, EU or Thailand of approval to commence a Phase II/III clinical trial (“Regulatory Notice”). The $10 million due from Novo under the License Agreement is to be paid in the following installments: (i) $450,000 upon the signing of the Agreement (paid in February 2012), (ii) $150,000 at the start of each month after Immunovative submits to a peer-reviewed journal a manuscript for publication describing the results of the Phase I/II clinical trial conducted pursuant to IND 13,9361 until the $10 million has been paid, (iii) $2 million within 60 days of receiving Regulatory Notice and (iv) at any time that Novo chooses prior to the dates above.

Upon successful completion of a randomized Phase II/III clinical trial (the “Clinical Trial”) designed to prove the efficacy of at least one of the Licensed Products, Novo and Immunovative have agreed to consummate a merger transaction (either directly or through a subsidiary of Novo) with the Immunovative shareholders immediately prior to the merger owning 75% of the post-merger shares and the shareholders of Novo immediately prior to the merger owning 25% of the post-merger shares on a fully diluted basis. The successful completion of the Clinical Trial shall be defined as the date that the treatment protocol for the number of evaluable subjects necessary to conduct a statistical analysis comparing a placebo control group with a Licensed Product is completed, whereby there is sufficient power to detect a statistically significant ( $p < 0.10$ ) increase in overall survival of 50% or greater of the Licensed Product as compared to the placebo.

The License Agreement provides that the percentage of the post-merger shares that the shareholders of Novo immediately prior to the merger will increase in certain circumstances, including if Novo provides Immunovative more than the $10 million set out in the License Agreement and if Immunovative has outstanding debt (excluding any liabilities owed to patent attorney or for patent maintenance fees) at the time of the merger. Likewise the License Agreement provides that the percentage of the post-merger shares that the shareholders of Novo immediately prior to the merger will decrease in certain circumstances, including if Immunovative raises funds on its own or if Novo has outstanding debts at the time of the merger.

If there is a successful completion of a Clinical Trial but Novo has not paid the full $10 million, the parties may agree to merge or Novo may receive shares of Immunovative based on the amount of funds the Company has provided Immunovative and the license will terminate. If there is not a successful completion of a Clinical Trial and Novo decides to continue to fund the clinical trials, Novo will receive shares in Immunovative for any additional payments more than $10 million. In each of these instances, the shares that Novo will receive will be based on a valuation (prior to the funds provided by Novo) of Immunovative of $30 million, which can be decreased for any outstanding debts (with the exception of patent related debts and trade liabilities) of Immunovative or increased for any funds raised by Immunovative on its own.

If Novo pays all amounts due under the License Agreement, but there is no successful completion of a Clinical Trial, Novo and Immunovative may nevertheless agree to merge. If they do not, Novo shall maintain the license granted under the License Agreement.

NOTE C - NOTE PAYABLE TO CAETE INVEST TRADE, S.A.

On November 1, 2009, Novo issued a $242,000 promissory note to Caete Invest Trade, S.A. maturing on October 31, 2010. The Company is currently in default under the note. The note bears interest at the rate of 10% per annum and is payable at maturity. The face amount of the note plus accrued interest is convertible into unregistered common stock of Novo at the lesser of 100% of the volume weighted average price ("VWAP") of common stock as reported by Bloomberg L.P. on the day prior to the conversion date and a 15% discount to the lowest daily closing "VWAP" of common stock during the five days prior to the conversion date. Novo, in accordance with EITF 98-5 and 00-27, utilized the Market approach to value the debt instrument and concluded that a beneficial conversion feature exists since the effective conversion price of shares was less than the stock price at commitment date. The 15% discount created a beneficial conversion feature at the commitment date aggregating $36,300 which was accreted monthly from the issuance date of the promissory note through maturity and was being recorded as additional interest expense. On February 4, 2010, $62,428 of the loan was repaid. The note is currently in default. At March 31, 2011 and December 31, 2011, the loan balance was $179,572.

NOTE D - RELATED PARTY PAYABLES

At December 31, 2011, the related party payables of $222,387 consisted of: (a) expenses paid by the Chief Executive Officer on behalf of Novo aggregating $96,884 of which approximately $80,000 was paid in February 2012 and (b) a note payable to the Chief Executive Officer of $125,503 (See Note E for a description of the terms).

NOTE E - NOTE PAYABLE TO CHIEF EXECUTIVE OFFICER

On January 21, 2010, Novo owed its Chief Executive Officer approximately $376,560 for salary and expenditures paid by him on behalf of Novo. Novo and its Chief Executive Officer agreed to formalize a portion of the debt and issued a $172,364 promissory note maturing on January 21, 2012. The note bears interest at the rate of 10% per annum and is payable at maturity. The face amount of the loan plus accrued interest was convertible into unregistered common stock of Novo at the lesser of 100% of the volume weighted average price ("VWAP") of common stock as reported by Bloomberg L.P. on the day prior to the conversion date and a 15% discount to the lowest daily closing "VWAP" of common stock during the five days prior to the conversion date. Novo in accordance with EITF 98-5 and 00-27 utilized the Market approach to value the debt instrument and concluded that a beneficial conversion feature exists since the effective conversion price of shares was less than the stock price at commitment date. The 15% discount created a beneficial conversion feature at the commitment date aggregating $25,855 will be accreted monthly from the issuance date of the promissory note through maturity and will be recorded as additional interest expense. During the nine months ended December 31, Novo repaid $45,000 of the loan. Accordingly, at December 31, 2011 and March 31, 2011, the balance of the loan is $125,503 and $161,371 net of the unamortized discount of $1,861 and $10,993, respectively. The Company is currently in default under the Note.

NOTE F - CONVERTIBLE DEBENTURE

On January 26, 2010, Novo issued at par, a $500,000 Secured Convertible Debenture maturing on January 26, 2011. The debenture bears interest at the rate of 10% per annum and is payable monthly. Novo had granted a security interest in substantially all of the assets of Novo as collateral for the debenture. The face amount of the loan plus accrued interest is convertible into unregistered common stock of Novo at the lesser of 100% of the volume weighted average price ("VWAP") of common stock as reported by Bloomberg L.P. on the day prior to the conversion date and a 15% discount to the lowest daily closing "VWAP" of common stock during the five days prior to the conversion date. Additionally, Novo issued commitment shares totaling 6,085,193, equivalent to $1,500,000 at the closing date to obtain the loan. Novo in accordance with APB 14 utilized the Market Approach to value the debt instrument and allocated the net proceeds from the issuance of the debenture based upon the pro rata portion of the face value of the debentures and the undiscounted value of the commitment shares. Additionally, 15% of the Debenture was allocated to a beneficial conversion feature in accordance with EITF 98-5 and EITF 00-27. Novo concluded that the 15% discount created a beneficial conversion feature at the commitment date since the effective conversion price of the shares was less than the stock price at the commitment date. The beneficial conversion feature and the pro rata value of the commitment shares aggregated $395,521 which was accreted monthly from the issuance date of the Debenture through maturity and will be recorded as additional interest expense. At March 31, 2011, Novo recorded the 15% redemption premium which is required upon repayment and an additional 5% interest penalty resulting from the loan being in default for non-payment of interest.

On June 1, 2011, Novo's secured convertible debenture was transferred to Green Eagle Capital Corp., a corporation controlled by a shareholder of Novo through a debt assignment instrument.

On July 11, 2011, Green Eagle Capital Corp., as principal agent for a group of investors, converted the secured convertible debenture into 10,000,000 shares of Novo's common stock.

In connection with the conversion, Novo incurred a loss on the extinguishment of debt in accordance with ASC Topic 470-60 Debt. Under the terms of the original conversion agreement, Novo would have issued 6,678,320 shares based upon the conversion provisions. Under the debt assignment and new conversion agreement, an additional 3,321,680 shares were issued valued at the conversion price in the original conversion agreement.

NOTE G - STOCKHOLDERS' EQUITY

On May 1, 2009, Novo issued 3,000,000 shares of its common stock to Andre L'Heureux, former President of Novo, in connection with his employment contract. The original contract specified that these shares vest at the rate of 83,333 per month over a three-year period. On October 21, 2009, Mr. L'Heureux resigned as President and became Chief Technical Officer. On October 1, 2010, the Board modified the agreement to provide for the immediate vesting of all unearned shares. The shares were valued at $0.10 per share utilizing May 1, 2009 as the measurement date.

This agreement was amended on December 1, 2009 with immediate vesting of all issued shares.

In connection with the agreement, Novo issued 450,000 shares which will vest at the rate of 12,500 shares per month. ASC 820's valuation techniques are based on observable and unobservable inputs. Observable inputs reflect readily obtainable data from independent sources, while unobservable inputs reflect our market assumptions.

ASC 820 classifies these inputs into the following hierarchy:

Level 1 inputs: Quoted prices for identical instruments in active markets.

Level 2 inputs: Quoted prices for similar instruments in active markets; quoted prices for identical or similar instruments in markets that are not active; and model-derived valuations whose inputs are observable or whose significant value drivers are observable.

Level 3 inputs: Instruments with primarily unobservable value drivers.

The fair value of Novo's cash, miscellaneous receivable, accounts payable, notes payable and accrued expenses approximate the carrying amounts of such investments due to their short maturity.

The Company on May 17, 2011 entered into an exclusive memorandum of understanding with Immunovative Therapies Ltd. (“Immunovative”) whereby the Company would acquire Immunovative’s subsidiary. The Company terminated this memorandum of understanding, and on December 12, 2011, it entered into a License Agreement with Immunovative pursuant to which Novo received an immediate exclusive and worldwide license to commercialize all product candidates (the “Licensed Products”) based on Immunovative’s current and future patents and a patent in-licensed from the University of Arizona. Additionally, 15% of the Debenture was allocated to a beneficial conversion feature in accordance with EITF 98-5 and EITF 00-27. However, the accompanying financial statements have been prepared on a going concern basis, which contemplates the realization of assets and satisfaction of liabilities in the normal course of business. While no system of internal controls can ensure elimination of all errors and irregularities, Novo Energies Corporation’s internal controls, which are reviewed and modified in response to changing conditions, have been designed to provide reasonable assurance that assets are safeguarded, policies and procedures are followed, transactions are properly executed and reported, and appropriate disclosures are made. The concept of reasonable assurance is based on the recognition that there are limitations in all systems of internal control and that the costs of such systems should be balanced with their benefits.

Internal Control Over Financial Reporting — During the most recently completed fiscal quarter, there has been no change in our internal control over financial reporting that has materially affected or is reasonably likely to materially affect our internal controls over financial reporting.

Report On Disclosure Controls And Procedures — As of December 31, 2011, management carried out an evaluation of the effectiveness of the design and operation of the Company's disclosure controls and procedures pursuant to Rule 13a-15 under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended (the "Exchange Act"). Based upon that evaluation, it concluded that the Company's disclosure controls and procedures are not effective in ensuring that information required to be disclosed in its periodic filings under the Exchange Act is accumulated and communicated to us to allow timely decisions regarding required disclosures, and such information is recorded, processed, summarized and reported within the time periods specified in the Securities and Exchange Commission's rules and forms.

PART II - OTHER INFORMATION

Item 1. Legal Proceedings.

None.

Item 1A. Risk Factors.

Not applicable.

Item 2. Unregistered Sales of Equity Securities and Use of Proceeds.

In the three-months ended December 31, 2011, the Company issued 2,800,000 shares in a private placement for an aggregate of $140,000. In December 2011, the Company also issued 2,200,000 shares in a private placement for $0.10 per share. On February 8, 2012, the Company issued 14,131,500 shares of its common stock to various investors at $0.10 per share

The shares mentioned above were issued in reliance on exemptions from registration under Section 4(2) of the Securities Act of 1933, as amended, including Rule 506 of Regulation D and Regulation S promulgated under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended. These transactions qualified for exemption from registration because among other things, the transactions did not involve a public offering, each investor was an accredited investor, each investor had access to information about our Company and their investment, each investor took the securities for investment and not resale, there was no general solicitation or advertising in connection with the placement and we took appropriate measures to restrict the transfer of the securities.

Item 3. Defaults Upon Senior Securities.

On November 1, 2009, the Company issued a $242,000 promissory note to Caete Invest Trade, S.A. maturing on October 31, 2010. The note bears interest at the rate of 10% per annum and is payable at maturity. The face amount of the note plus accrued interest is convertible into unregistered common stock of the company at the lesser of 100% of the volume weighted average price ("VWAP") of common stock as reported by Bloomberg L.P. on the day prior to the conversion date and a 15% discount to the lowest daily closing "VWAP" of common stock during the five days prior to the conversion date. The Company, in accordance with EITF 98-5 and 00-27, utilized the Market approach to value the debt instrument and concluded that a beneficial conversion feature exists since the effective conversion price of shares was less than the stock price at commitment date. The 15% discount created a beneficial conversion feature at the commitment date aggregating $36,300 which was accreted monthly from the issuance date of the promissory note through maturity and was being recorded as additional interest expense. On February 4, 2010, $62,428 of the loan was repaid. The note is currently in default. At December 31, 2011 and March 31, 2011, the balance of the loan is $125,503 and $161,371 net of the unamortized discount of $1,861 and $10,993, respectively.
