This Reoffer Prospectus (the "Prospectus") relates to the reoffer and resale of up to 505,000 shares (the "Shares") of our Common Stock, par value $0.01 per share (the "Common Stock"), issuable on exercise by officers or directors who may be deemed to be affiliates (as defined in Rule 405 under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended (the "Securities Act")) ("Selling Stockholders") of options granted, prior to the date of this Prospectus or thereafter, under our 2000 Incentive Compensation Program (the "Program"), including 58,500 shares issuable on exercise of options held as of the date of this Prospectus by officers and a director, as listed on pages 11 and 12 of this Prospectus under "Selling Stockholders." PROSPECTUS SUMMARY

The Company	Moore Medical Corp. (the Company, Moore Medical, we or us) is an Internet-enabled, multi-channel marketer and distributor of medical, surgical and pharmaceutical products to approximately 100,000 health care practices and facilities in non-hospital settings nationwide, including physicians, emergency medical technicians, schools, correctional institutions, municipalities, occupational/industrial health doctors and nurses, and other specialty practice communities. Moore Medical also serves the medical/surgical supply needs of over 26 customer community affiliates. We market to and serve our customers through direct mail, industry-specialized telephone support staff, field sales representatives, and the Internet. Our direct marketing and distribution business has been in operation for over 50 years.
Common Stock Being Offered	This Prospectus relates to the reoffer by the Selling Stockholders of up to 505,000 shares of Common Stock, which they may acquire upon the exercise of options held by and issued under the Program. The Selling Stockholders, as officers or directors, may be deemed to be our affiliates (as defined in Rule 405 under the Securities Act).
Common Stock Outstanding after the Offering	As of December 28, 2002, we had (exclusive of 56,030 treasury shares) 3,189,784 shares of Common Stock outstanding. At that date, options for an aggregate of approximately 145,000 shares of our Common Stock were outstanding under the Program, including options held by Selling Stockholders for 58,500 shares, of which options for 17,125 shares are or become exercisable within 60 days of the date of this Prospectus.
Use of Proceeds	We will not receive any proceeds from the sale of the Shares offered by the Selling Stockholders. However, we will receive the exercise price paid by Selling Stockholders upon the exercise of options. Assuming that only options exercisable or which are subject to becoming exercisable within 60 days of the date of this Prospectus are exercised, we will receive approximately $360,000 on such option exercises. If all of the options presently held by the Selling Stockholders are exercised, we will receive approximately $1,085,000. See Use of Proceeds. We anticipate using any such proceeds for general corporate purposes, including working capital.
American Stock Exchange Market Symbol	Our trading symbol on The American Stock Exchange is MMD.
Risk Factors	See Risk Factors beginning on page 4 for discussion of risk factors that should be considered by prospective investors.

RISK FACTORS

Consider the following risks carefully before making a decision to buy our Common Stock. You could lose all or part of your investment if our business suffers because one of these risks actually occurs.

The healthcare products distribution business is intensely competitive.

We compete with numerous other companies, including several major manufacturers and distributors. Our products are available from many other sources, and our customers tend to have relationships with several distributors. Consolidations among healthcare product distributors (through acquisitions, mergers and joint ventures) could add to the number of competitors who may have advantages in product procurement costs and the ability to lower prices, as well as economies of scale. Many of our competitors have greater financial and other resources than we do; they may, therefore, be able to exploit opportunities and adjust to unforeseen developments better than we can. In addition, new online competitors providing aggressive pricing, rapid delivery and new services could adversely affect us.

Customer consolidations limit our pricing flexibility.

As healthcare practices consolidate into larger and more geographically spread organizations, and with the development of large, sophisticated buying groups, we expect that there will continue to be a growing number of large customers who will require their distributor to be able to offer intensely competitive prices, rapid delivery and new services. We cannot ensure that we will be able to compete aggressively on price.

There may be decreasing reliance on distributors as manufacturers establish direct sales channels.

Drug manufacturers have attempted to increase revenues and cut costs by reducing their use of distributors. They have introduced Internet-based technologies, which give them the ability to sell directly to end-users online. As a result, we and other independent healthcare distributors could experience a declining share of the healthcare products market.

Changes in the availability or saleability of products could adversely affect us.

Distributors in the healthcare products industry have on occasion had inventory surpluses or shortages of particular products. We have marked down our inventory of a product when, for example, it became difficult to sell it at our cost because of the introduction of a lower-priced alternative. Shortfalls in supply may result from a raw materials shortage, interruption in a manufacturer's regulatory compliance or a manufacturer's misestimation of market requirements. For example, in the third quarter of 2000, there was a shortage in the availability of flu vaccine as a result of low production. We may not be able to make up lost revenues arising from a product's unavailability, even if it becomes more readily available in subsequent periods.

Disruptions or cost increases in shipping can adversely affect us.

Shipping is a significant expense in our business. We currently ship almost all of our U.S. orders by United Parcel Service and typically bear the cost of shipment. Accordingly, any significant increase in shipping rates, such as those resulting from increased fuel costs, could have an adverse effect on our operations. Similarly, strikes or other service interruptions by trucking companies could cause our operating expenses to increase and delay our receipt of inventory items and our deliveries to customers.

Intellectual property claims may be costly.

We cannot predict whether others will assert claims of infringement against us. Since we employ software and other technology for our online operations and provide informative messages, articles and other content on our web sites, we may face claims and potential liability for copyright, patent or other intellectual property right infringement, invasion of privacy, defamation and similar claims. We may in the future become subject to liability for unauthorized use of third-party content, or for information collected from and about our users. If we need to defend against any of these or similar claims, we may face costly litigation, delay and diversion of technical and management personnel.

We may also have to develop non-infringing technology or content or enter into royalty or licensing agreements. Such agreements may not be available on terms acceptable to us. A successful claim of infringement against us would adversely affect us if we were unable to develop non-infringing technology or content or to license the infringed or similar technology on a timely and acceptable basis.

We may become subject to new sales tax collection obligations.

We currently collect sales taxes for shipments to Connecticut, Florida and California, the states in which we have, or recently have had, a distribution center, and in about ten other states where we may meet sales tax collection guidelines. We could be adversely affected if a jurisdiction in which we do not collect sales taxes seeks to impose collection obligations on us or tries to hold us liable for non-collections.

In addition, a federal moratorium, under the 1998 Internet Tax Freedom Act, on newly legislated sales taxes on interstate online purchases is due to expire on November 1, 2003. The moratorium may expire without new legislation, or new legislation may impose a sales tax on Internet transactions. In either event, some online purchasers and sellers could lose advantages that they now enjoy, and we could be faced with new administrative burdens.

Our business is subject to various federal, state and local laws covering the distribution of pharmaceuticals and medical devices.

Among the federal laws with which we must comply are:

The Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act, which regulates the introduction, manufacture, advertising, labeling, packaging, storage, handling, marketing and distribution of, and record keeping for, pharmaceuticals and medical devices shipped in interstate commerce.

The Prescription Drug Marketing Act of 1987, which requires a distributor who sells pharmaceuticals for resale (as we do) to register with a federal agency and to acquire a license in each state in which it conducts business, in accordance with federally established guidelines on storage, handling and record maintenance.

A federal anti-kickback statute prohibiting remuneration to induce the purchase of items reimbursable under federally funded healthcare programs such as Medicare and Medicaid.

The Controlled Substances Act, which requires us, as a distributor of some controlled substances, to register with a governmental agency and subjects us to inspection by the Federal Drug Enforcement Agency.

Our management believes that we are in material compliance with, and we have all permits and licenses required, under applicable laws and regulations. However, violation of these laws or related regulations could cause a suspension or interruption of our pharmaceutical or medical device distribution and could subject us to civil and criminal penalties.

Changes in legislation or in insurance programs could adversely affect us.

The healthcare products industry has changed significantly in recent years in response to pressures to reduce the cost of healthcare products and services. These changes include:

reductions in governmental support of healthcare products and services,

changes in legislation and regulations governing the delivery or pricing of healthcare products and services, and increased use of managed care.

These changes have pressured healthcare practitioners to economize on their costs by reducing the prices they are willing to pay. These trends inhibit our flexibility in setting prices for our products. We expect that our industry will continue to change significantly as a result of governmental direction or influence to cut costs. We cannot predict whether any further changes in legislation, regulations or insurance programs will occur or what effect they might have on us.

Our shareholder rights plan may discourage third party offers to acquire us.

On November 18, 1998, our Board of Directors adopted a Shareholder Rights Plan and declared a dividend of one right for each outstanding share of Common Stock. The rights, which are designed to guard against takeover attempts at prices that do not reflect the Company's full value or which are conducted on terms that our Board does not approve as being in our shareholders' best interests, may deter a third party from acquiring us.

Our change of control provisions may discourage third party offers to acquire us.

We have a Change of Control/Change of Position Plan (the "COC Plan"), which entitles some of our executives to severance payments if there should be a change of position following a change of control. Generally, a change of control entails a change, not approved by our Board, of 50% or more of the ownership of our Common Stock or in the composition of the majority of our Board, and a change of position entails either our terminating a participant's employment or a participant's resigning after an adverse change in the participant's duties.

Our three most senior executive officers and two vice presidents are currently participants under the COC Plan. The maximum total amount of severance payments that we would be required to pay to those five participants upon a change of control and changes of positions is approximately $840,000. In addition, some of the stock options we have granted contain change of control provisions that may accelerate the vesting of otherwise unexercisable installments of the options. At present, 17,250 shares of our Common Stock could become exercisable after a change of control. The change of control/position provisions, which are designed to help us attract and retain talent by cushioning the effect that a change of control might have on our executives' careers or positions, may make it more expensive for a third party to acquire us.

The market price and trading volume of our Common Stock has been volatile.

The market price and trading volume of our Common Stock have fluctuated significantly. During the fiscal year ended December 28, 2002, our Common Stock traded on The American Stock Exchange at a high of $10.00 and at a low of $6.05, and on January 3, 2003, it closed at $7.39. Its daily trading volume during this period fluctuated between 100 and 30,000 shares. The trading price and volume of our Common Stock may continue to be volatile in response to many factors, including:

our reported or anticipated quarterly revenues or operating results, and conditions or trends in the Internet or e-commerce industry.

We may not succeed in our strategy to transform ourselves into an integrated, multi-channel marketing and sales enterprise in which e-commerce plays an increasingly important role.

We market and distribute medical and surgical products and, to a lesser extent, pharmaceuticals nationwide to professional healthcare practitioners operating in specialty practice areas in non-hospital settings.

Table of Contents

Historically, we marketed our products mostly through catalogs and by telemarketing. Since 1999, we have been transforming ourselves into an integrated, multi-channel marketing and sales enterprise in which e-commerce plays an increasingly important role. As a result, our business has changed from one relying on catalogs and telesales into one that is multi-channeled, offline and online, and e-commerce enabled.

Our strategy involves, among other things:

- attracting new customers and transferring existing customers to our web sites, and
- enhancing our e-commerce capabilities.

Since we enhanced our web site in 1999, almost all of our revenues continue to come from our catalog sales. We cannot assure you that our strategy will increase our revenues and income.

Period-to-period comparisons of our financial results are not necessarily meaningful.

Because we have had only limited operating experience in e-commerce marketing, our earlier operating history does not necessarily provide meaningful information on which to evaluate our business and prospects.

Period-to-period comparisons may not be good indicators of subsequent performance because revenues and expenses may fluctuate significantly for a number of reasons, not all of which are in our control. These include:

- the degree of customer acceptance of our web sites,
- the fluctuating amounts and irregular timing of some of our operating costs related to the timing of publication of our direct mail catalogs and other unevenly timed expenses (for example, for developing specialty practice catalogs, recruitment fees, sponsoring online banners, and prospecting online and offline for new customers through mailing lists),
- capital expenses for implementing our multi-channel transformation strategy,
- technical difficulties or disruptions affecting our web sites,
- the performance by third parties in connection with the operation of our web sites,
- the amount and timing of our investments in, or acquisitions of, web sites serving specialty professional practice communities,
- our competitors' introduction of new web sites,
- price competition, and
- governmental regulations related to use of the Internet for commerce or to the sale or distribution of medical and surgical supplies or pharmaceuticals.

Therefore, period-to-period comparisons of our financial results are not necessarily meaningful, and you should not rely on them as an indication of our future performance.

In addition, the securities markets have experienced extreme price and volume fluctuations generally, and the market prices and trading volume of e-commerce company stock have been especially volatile. These broad market and industry factors may adversely affect the market price of our Common Stock, regardless of our actual revenues or operating performance.

Table of Contents

Web sites may be subject to disruption.

Any system failure that causes a disruption in the operation of our web sites or a delay in their responsiveness reduces customer traffic and sales. Our web sites have, on occasion, experienced interruptions that made them unavailable for short periods, slowed their response time, or prevented us from efficiently fulfilling orders and similar problems may occur in the future.

We rely on a third party and its computer server infrastructure to host our online website network under a contractual arrangement that ends on December 15, 2003.

Security breaches could occur on our web sites.

Our web sites are vulnerable to security breaches and similar threats, including break-ins, network attacks, computer viruses and similar disruptive problems. Inappropriate use of our network by third parties could jeopardize the security of confidential information stored in our computer systems. Security problems caused by third parties also could lead to interruption and delay or to the cessation of service to our customers. Although we have had no significant online security problems, the costs and resources required to alleviate such problems may be significant and could adversely affect our revenues and the results of our operations.

Our web sites may be vulnerable to credit card fraud.

To securely receive and transmit confidential information, such as customer credit card numbers, we rely on encryption and authentication technology that we license from third parties. Since our activities and those of our contractors involve storage and transmission of credit card numbers or other confidential information, security breaches could result in the fraudulent use of credit card data, damage our reputation and expose us to losses or litigation and possible liability. Under current credit card practices, a merchant is liable for fraudulent credit card transactions where, as is the case with online transactions, it does not obtain a cardholder's signature.

We may not be able to keep up with rapidly changing technological and Internet developments.

E-commerce markets are affected by rapid change in technology, industry standards, and customer preferences and requirements. Inability to keep up with these changes could harm our business. These changes could render our web sites, operational infrastructure and operating practices obsolete. We could incur substantial expense to modify or adapt our sites, infrastructure and practices. To be successful, we must anticipate and respond to such changes, which we may not accomplish in a timely and cost-effective manner or which may be beyond our financial or technical resources. Many of our competitors have substantially more resources to develop technology solutions than we do.

The future success of our web sites will depend, in part, on our ability to track the behavior of visitors on our sites so that we can effectively market our products and services to them. Federal or state laws or regulations that restrict our ability to assemble and use information about our web sites' visitors could adversely affect our business. Moreover, Internet users may avoid web sites which track their online behavior. If this occurred on a widespread basis, it could adversely affect our business.

There may be additional governmental regulation of the Internet.

Internet law remains largely unsettled, even in areas where there has been some legislative action. It could take years to determine how existing laws, such as those governing intellectual property, privacy, libel, contracts and taxation, apply to the Internet. In addition, the growth and development of the market for online commerce may prompt calls for more stringent consumer protection laws that may impose additional burdens on companies conducting business online. Adoption or modification of laws or regulations relating to the Internet could adversely affect our business.

The shares, which are issuable upon the exercise of the options, may be sold pursuant to this Prospectus by the Selling Stockholders. These sales may occur in privately negotiated transactions or through brokers and dealers, as agents, or to brokers and dealers, as principals who may receive compensation in the form of discounts, concessions or commissions not exceeding those customary in similar transactions from the Selling Stockholders or from the purchasers of the Common Stock for whom the broker-dealers may act as agent or to whom they may sell as principal, or both. The Selling Stockholders may sell Shares in transactions (including one or more block transactions) on The American Stock Exchange, in the public market off The American Stock Exchange, through put or call options transactions relating to the Shares or in a combination of such transactions. After the passage of the requisite period of time, the Selling Stockholders also may sell the Shares pursuant to Rule 144 under the Securities Act. The Company has been advised by the Selling Stockholders that they have not, as of the date of this Prospectus, made any arrangements relating to the distribution of the Shares. In effecting sales, broker-dealers engaged by the Selling Stockholders may arrange for other broker-dealers to participate. Broker-dealers will receive commissions or discounts from a Selling Stockholder in amounts to be negotiated prior to the sale. All expenses of registration incurred in connection with this offering are being borne by the Company, but all brokerage commissions and other expenses incurred by a Selling Stockholder will be borne by that Selling Stockholder. In order to comply with the securities laws of certain states, if applicable, the Shares only will be sold through registered or licensed brokers or dealers.

Upon being notified by a Selling Stockholder that any material arrangement (other than a customary brokerage account agreement) has been entered into with a broker or dealer for the sale of Shares pursuant to this Prospectus through a block trade, purchase by a broker or dealer or similar transaction, the Company will file a supplemental prospectus pursuant to Rule 424(c) under the Securities Act disclosing (i) the name of each such broker-dealer, (ii) the number of Shares involved, (iii) the price at which such Shares were sold, (iv) the commissions paid or discounts or concessions allowed to such broker-dealer(s), (v) if applicable, that such broker-dealer(s) did not conduct any investigation to verify the information set out or incorporated by reference in the Prospectus, as supplemented, and (vi) any other facts material to the transaction.

The Selling Stockholders and any broker-dealers who execute sales for the Selling Stockholders may be deemed to be underwriters within the meaning of the Securities Act by virtue of the position of the Selling Stockholder as an affiliate (as such term is defined in Rule 405 under the Securities Act) of the Company, number of shares of Common Stock to be sold or resold by such persons or the manner of sale thereof. If the Selling Stockholders or any broker-dealer or other holders were determined to be underwriters, any discounts, concessions or commissions received by them or by brokers or dealers acting on their behalf and any profits received by them on the resale of their shares of Common Stock might be deemed underwriting discounts and commissions under the Securities Act.

In addition, any such broker or dealer may be required to deliver a copy of this Prospectus to any person who purchases any of the Shares from or through such broker or dealer.

The Selling Stockholders have advised the Company that any purchase or sale of the Common Stock by them will be in compliance with Regulation M (Regulation M) promulgated under the Exchange Act. In general, Rule 102 under Regulation M prohibits any person connected with a distribution of the Company's Common Stock (the Distribution) from directly or indirectly bidding for, or purchasing for any account in which he has a beneficial interest, any Common Stock or any right to purchase Common Stock, for a period of one business day prior to, and subsequent to completion of his or her participation in the Distribution (the Distribution Period). During the Distribution Period, Rule 104 (Rule 104) under Regulation M prohibits the Selling Stockholders and any other persons engaged in the Distribution from engaging in any stabilizing bid or purchasing the Common Stock except for the purpose of preventing or retarding a decline in the open market price of the Common Stock. No such person may effect any stabilizing transaction to facilitate any offering at the market. Inasmuch as any Selling Stockholder will be reoffering and reselling the Common Stock at the market, Rule 104 prohibits him or her from effecting any stabilizing transaction in contravention of Rule 104 with respect to the Common Stock.

Assuming that only options exercisable or which are subject to becoming exercisable within 60 days of the date of this Prospectus are exercised, we will receive approximately $360,000 on such option exercises. However, assuming that all options outstanding under the Program as of the date of this Prospectus become exercisable and are exercised, we will receive approximately $1,085,000 on such option exercises. We anticipate using any such proceeds for general corporate purposes, including working capital.

Item 5. Interest of Named Experts and Counsel.

Table of ContentsItem 6. Indemnification of Directors and Officers.

Our certificate of incorporation requires that we indemnify our directors and officers to the fullest extent provided by the Delaware General Corporation Law (the "DGCL"). The Company has directors and officers insurance. The DGCL does not permit a provision in a corporation's certificate of incorporation that would eliminate a director's liability (i) for a breach of his or her duty of loyalty to the corporation or its shareholders, (ii) for acts or omissions not in good faith or that involve intentional misconduct or a knowing violation of law, (iii) for any unlawful payment of a dividend or unlawful stock repurchase or redemption, or (iv) for any transaction from which the director derived an improper personal benefit. While our certificate of incorporation provides directors with protection from awards for monetary damages for breaches of their duty of care, it does not eliminate the duty. Accordingly, it will have no effect on the availability of equitable remedies, such as an injunction or rescission based on a director's breach of his or her duty of care. The statutory provisions apply to an officer of a corporation only if he or she is a director of such corporation and is acting in his or her capacity as director, and do not apply to the officers of the corporation who are not directors. There is no pending litigation or proceeding involving any of our directors or officers in which indemnification is required or permitted, and we are not aware of any threatened litigation or proceeding that may result in a claim for such indemnification.

Insofar as indemnification for liabilities arising under the Securities Act may be permitted to directors, officers and controlling persons of the Company pursuant to the foregoing provisions, or otherwise, the Company has been advised that in the opinion of the Commission such indemnification is against public policy as expressed in the Securities Act, and is, therefore, unenforceable.

Item 9. Undertakings.

- (a) The undersigned Registrant hereby undertakes:
- (1) To file, during any period in which offers or sales are being made, a post-effective amendment to this Registration Statement:
 - (i) To include any prospectus required by Section 10(a)(3) of the Securities Act;

Table of Contents

To reflect in the prospectus any facts or events arising after the effective date of the Registration Statement (or the most recent post-effective amendment thereof) which, individually or in the aggregate, represent a fundamental change in the information set forth in this Registration Statement. Notwithstanding the foregoing, any increase or decrease in the volume of securities offered (if the total dollar volume of securities offered would not exceed that which was registered) and any deviation from the low or high end of the estimated maximum offering range may be reflected in the form of prospectus filed with the Commission pursuant to Rule 424(b) if, in the aggregate, the changes in volume and price represent no more than a 20 percent change in the maximum aggregate offering price set forth in the Calculation of Registration Fee table in the effective Registration Statement; and

- (ii) To include any material information with respect to the plan of distribution not previously disclosed in this Registration Statement or any material change to such information in this Registration Statement; provided, however, that paragraphs (a)(1)(i) and (a)(1)(ii) do not apply if the information required to be included in a post-effective amendment by those paragraphs is contained in the periodic reports filed by the Registrant pursuant to Section 13 or Section 15(d) of the Exchange Act that are incorporated by reference in this Registration Statement.

- (2) That, for the purpose of determining any liability under the Securities Act, each such post-effective amendment shall be deemed to be a new registration statement relating to the securities offered therein, and the offering of such securities at that time shall be deemed to be the initial bona fide offering thereof.
 - (3) To remove from registration by means of a post-effective amendment any of the securities being registered which remain unsold at the termination of the offering thereof.
- (b) The undersigned Registrant hereby further undertakes that, for the purposes of determining any liability under the Securities Act, each filing of the Registrant's Annual Report pursuant to Section 13(a) or Section 15(d) of the Exchange Act (and, when applicable, each filing of an employee benefit plan's Annual Report pursuant to Section 15(d) of the Exchange Act) that is incorporated by reference in this Registration Statement shall be deemed to be a new registration statement relating to the securities offered therein, and the offering of such securities at that time shall be deemed to be the initial bona fide offering thereof.
- (c) Insofar as indemnification for liabilities arising under the Securities Act may be permitted to directors, officers and controlling persons of the Registrant pursuant to the foregoing provisions, or otherwise, the Registrant has been advised that in the opinion of the Commission such indemnification is against public policy as expressed in the Securities Act and is, therefore, unenforceable. In the event that a claim for indemnification against such liabilities (other than the payment by the Registrant of expenses incurred or paid by a director, officer or controlling person of the Registrant in the successful defense of any action suit or proceeding) is asserted by such director, officer or controlling person in connection with the securities being registered, the Registrant will, unless in the opinion of its counsel the matter has been settled by controlling precedent, submit to a court of appropriate jurisdiction the question whether such indemnification by it is against public policy as expressed in the Securities Act and will be governed by the final adjudication of such issue.
