Item 2. Acquisition or Disposition of Assets.

On February 12, 2004, FedEx Corporation (FedEx) completed its acquisition of Kinko s, Inc. (Kinko s) in accordance with the terms of the Agreement and Plan of Merger (the Merger Agreement) dated as of December 29, 2003 among Kinko s, FedEx, Keyway, Inc., a wholly owned subsidiary of FedEx (Merger Sub), and the Principal Stockholders named therein. The full text of the Merger Agreement is filed as Exhibit 2.1 and incorporated herein by reference. A copy of FedEx s press release dated February 12, 2004 announcing the completion of the merger is attached hereto as Exhibit 99.1 and incorporated herein by reference.

Pursuant to the Merger Agreement, Merger Sub was merged with and into Kinko s, and Kinko s became a wholly owned subsidiary of FedEx. The aggregate merger consideration paid by FedEx for Kinko s was $2.4 billion in cash. The merger consideration was determined by arm s length negotiations among the parties and financed with borrowings under a new $2 billion six-month revolving credit facility and cash on hand. Prior to the merger, no material relationships existed between Clayton, Dubilier & Rice, Inc., the manager of funds that owned approximately 73 percent of Kinko s outstanding shares, and FedEx, any affiliate of FedEx, any director or officer of FedEx or any associate of any such director or officer. Prior to the merger, an affiliate of JPMorgan Chase Bank owned approximately 18 percent of Kinko s outstanding shares. JPMorgan Chase Bank serves as administrative agent and has provided $700 million of the commitments for FedEx s $2 billion credit facility referred to above. In addition, FedEx has other commercial banking relationships with JPMorgan Chase Bank and its affiliates, including JPMorgan Chase Bank s role as the administrative agent and a lender under FedEx s previously existing $1 billion revolving credit facilities.

Kinko s provides document management and business services in the United States of America and nine other countries. FedEx intends to continue the business of Kinko s, with Gary M. Kusin remaining president and chief executive officer of Kinko s and the headquarters of Kinko s remaining located in Dallas, Texas.
