ITEM 2: MANAGEMENT'S DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS OF FINANCIAL CONDITION AND RESULTS OF OPERATIONS.

Plan of Operation & Managements Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations

INTRODUCTION

The following discussion is the quarterly management's discussion and analysis for the three month period ending March 31, 2003. Endo Networks, Inc., incorporated in Nevada and its wholly owned subsidiary, Endo Networks, Inc., incorporated in Ontario are collectively referred to as "Endo Networks" or the "Corporation". In this discussion, all amounts are expressed in US funds. We wish to caution readers that this report includes certain forward-looking information and statements within the meaning of US federal securities laws. These forward-looking statements contain information that is generally stated to be anticipated, expected or projected by Endo Networks, and involves known and unknown risks, uncertainties and other factors which may cause the actual results and performance of Endo Networks to be materially different from any future results and performance expressed or implied by such forward-looking information.

OVERVIEW

Endo Networks effectively commenced operations as an aggregator of public network applications September 30, 2001, making this the Sixth operating quarter for the Corporation. In addition to continually fine-tuning its application offering and strengthening its operational foundation, the company continues to be engaged in aggressively securing new paid pilot projects the retail, event and food service markets, primarily in Canada but with limited initiatives into the United States, as well as expanding our existing deployments. The positioning statement of the company has evolved into "Enabling Marketing's Last Mile", which refers to Endo's competencies at enabling aggregated marketing, human resources and technology solutions of both hardware and software at the point of interaction between employee and customer, i.e. the retail store or the restaurant.

RECENT EVENT

None.

DEPLOYMENTS

Generally, the winter is a slower season for new deployments, where we focus more on managing our existing deployments and refining our applications and solutions. This year is not unusual in this respect. Progress of note includes:

A: development of an expanded 802.11b (wi fi) capacity on our network deployments, both portable and permanent

B: development of an integrated online, kiosk and handheld relationship marketing/loyalty/training/incentive/reward/communications tool for use with both customers and employees

C: securing a new client and project in the recreational products business, using our integrated relationship marketing product for salesperson incentive.

D: approval by our client Sheridan Nurseries of expanding their initial test to a one-year pilot of a "total solution" in a high-volume location of their chain.

We continued to manage our existing retail deployments and field marketing deployments with our current customers.

There have been no deployments in the Government category this quarter. SPONSORSHIPS Presentations continue to secure sponsorships in preparation for upcoming projects.

PARTNERSHIPS

No new partnerships in this period.

REVENUES

Revenues have historically been low for this period, as we prepare for the spring increase in business. Revenues are a mix of hardware sale, hardware rental and professional services. Professional services includes content creation, interactive design (on-premise touchscreens and websites), marketing consulting and hardware support service contracts. Hardware rental includes both hardware rented to clients short-term for use in events and field marketing, and long-term rental equipment permanently deployed in client retail locations.

Revenues for the three months ended March 31, 2003 were $187,019 compared with $53,973 for the same three month period in 2002, with a gross profit of $73,153 compared with $53,973 a year earlier. The decrease in the percentage of gross profit to revenue was due to more service being conducted in the same period last year when there were more hardware deployments in the three months ended

March 31, 2003. The increase in deployments should increase our revenue stream in future periods.

Revenues for the six months ended March 31, 2003 were $298,690 compared with $112,423 for the same six month period in 2002, with a gross profit of $102,219 compared with $112,423 a year earlier. The decrease in the actual gross profit and the percentage of gross profit to revenue was due to more service being conducted in the same period last year when there were more hardware deployments in the six months ended March 31, 2003. The increase in deployments should increase our revenue stream in future periods.

OPERATING EXPENSE

For the three months ended March 31, 2003, operating expenses exclusive of depreciation and amortization decreased $78,040 to $66,784 from $144,824 for the same three months in 2002. Again, this was due to less salaries paid for service work and more hardware deployments. Depreciation and amortization also decreased from $16,370 to $9,736 for the same three month periods.

For the six months ended March 31, 2003, operating expenses exclusive of depreciation and amortization decreased $96,292 to $142,473 from $238,765 for the same three months in 2002. Again, this was due to less salaries paid for service work and more hardware deployments. Depreciation and amortization also decreased from $53,437 to $17,083 for the same six month periods.

Operating expenses include depreciation and amortization ("d&a") on both rental equipment and fixed assets, and current operating expenses comprising chiefly salary, facility rental, interest on leases and professional fees.

The d&a of rental equipment will increase in future quarters as deployments increase, while the d&a on fixed equipment is expected to increase as the requirement for additional network monitoring equipment increases.

Significant investments in growth continue to be made by the Corporation in the following areas: business development, application development, business partnership negotiation and network management. Operational expenses in this category are expected to remain relatively static for the near future.

Net loss decreased from a loss of $107,221 in the three months ended March 31, 2002 to a loss of $3,367 for the same three months in 2003. Net loss decreased from a loss of $179,779 in the six months ended March 31, 2002 to a loss of $55,337 for the same six months ended March 31, 2003.

RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT

As in previous quarters, the Corporation continues to receive response from existing clients with the potential to consume more of the Corporation's products and services, and potential new clients in similar and new market categories. In order to meet the demand for Endo Networks' offering, it continues to be necessary to invest substantially in research and development. Clients and potential clients have been involved in meetings and discourse to determine software requirements, and identify areas for further development. Skilled software developers are involved in utilizing the results of this research to for the improvement of existing applications as well as the development of select new applications. New application development is tied to a set timeline based on expected development resources.

LIQUIDITY & CAPITAL RESOURCES

Edgar Filing: ENDO NETWORKS INC - Form 10QSB/A

Based on cash on hand, contracts and accounts receivable, Endo Networks expects current capital resources to be sufficient to fund existing operations going forward.

OUTLOOK

Endo Networks expects the next quarter to show the results of the business development of this and previous quarters, with strong revenue growth. Operational expenses (net of product purchases for resale) are expected to increase slightly and temporarily due to deployment costs, with future expansion subsequent to revenue growth. However, there can be no assurance that unforeseen revenue shortfalls or unanticipated expenses will not occur. Profitability will be determined by management's decision on how much revenue to re-invest in growth.
