AER RIAN TA INCOMPETENCY WITNESSED AGAIN - EUR 7 MILLION SPENT ON 'PIER D' AND A NOT A SHOVEL LIFTED.

Ryanair, Europe's No.1 low fares airline, today (Thursday, 27th May 2004) called on the Government to proceed immediately with the planned break-up of the inefficient Aer Rianta monopoly. Aer Rianta monopoly has announced it has wasted a mind blowing EUR7million of tax payers money on the planned Pier D when not a single sod has been turned.

This latest evidence of total incompetence comes hours after Aer Rianta announced profit collapse of 50%, despite airport charges having doubled, car-parking prices tripled, and passenger numbers more than doubling during the 10 year mismanagement of the current Aer Rianta board by Chairman, Noel Hanlon.

Ryanair's Head of Communications, Paul Fitzsimmons, said:

"Yesterday, Aer Rianta announced a write-off of an incredible EUR7 million (of tax payers money) on the gold-plated Pier D plans, when not a single blade of grass has been touched.

What exactly was the EUR7 million spend on?

- * Consultants reports?
- * Fancy architects?
- * Engineering meetings?
- * Expensive lunches?
- * Lobbying?
- * Or was it on Noel Hanlon's PR Consultants?

The tax payers of this country are entitled to an explanation and we are calling on the Department of Transport to immediately publish detailed analysis of how exactly one can ratchet-up EUR7 million of tax payers money without a single hole being dug".

Ends.
