Agendum No. 1: Disposition of Surplus

The Company believes that the best way to meet shareholders' expectations is to improve the consolidated performance of the Company on an ongoing basis.

Kyocera Management Philosophy

Corporate Motto

Respect the Divine and Love People

Preserve the spirit to work fairly and honorably, respecting people, our work, our company and our global community.

Management Rationale

To provide opportunities for the material and intellectual growth of all our employees, and through our joint efforts, contribute to the advancement of society and humankind.

Management Philosophy

To coexist harmoniously with nature and society.
Harmonious coexistence is the underlying foundation of all our business activities as we work to create a world of abundance and peace.

Kyocera was built upon a unique foundation: the human spirit

When I founded Kyocera, I didn't have sufficient funding, let alone decent facilities or equipment. However, I was fortunate enough to have associates with whom I felt a spiritual bond. We shared every joy and pain, just like a family. I therefore decided to run this company with faith in the human spirit. The human spirit is said to be easily changed. Yet, when a deep sense of trust exists, I have found that there is nothing stronger or more reliable than our spiritual ties. Today, this faith in the human spirit forms the very heart of Kyocera.

Greetings

We are pleased to present to you our Report for the year ended March 31, 2010 (hereinafter, "fiscal 2010" refers to the fiscal year ended March 31, 2010, and other fiscal years are referred to in a corresponding manner).

Net sales for fiscal 2010 decreased compared with fiscal 2009 due to sharp deterioration in the business environment following the financial crisis sparked in the United States. Nonetheless, through efforts to strengthen each business management foundations by implementing various profit boosting initiatives, including reductions in manufacturing costs and other thorough cost-cutting measures, and improving productivity throughout the Kyocera Group, we were able to increase profits relative to fiscal 2009.

The operating environment for the Kyocera Group in fiscal 2011 is expected to pick up from fiscal 2010, and Kyocera will strive to further strengthen each business and seize opportunities for growth to drive improvement in performance. Specifically, in line with expansion of the information and communications market, we will increase production capacity in the components business, while working to increase sales in emerging countries and enhance profitability in the Telecommunications Equipment Group. For the booming environment and energy market, we will work vigorously to expand the solar energy business. Through these initiatives, we aim to become a high-growth, highly-profitable company.

We would very much appreciate your continued support of the Kyocera Group as we work steadily towards our goals.

Business Report (From April 1, 2009 to March 31, 2010)

1. Current Conditions of Kyocera Corporation and its Consolidated Subsidiaries

(1) Business Progress and Results

In fiscal 2010, the U.S. and European economies showed signs of recovery due to the effects of economic policy and fiscal measures in various countries, which included packages to stimulate personal consumption. In addition, the Chinese economy expanded strongly, mainly supported by growth in capital investment and personal consumption. Despite signs of expansion in corporate production activities along with a recovery in exports, particularly to Asia, and moderate improvement in personal consumption, the Japanese economy did not show full-scale recovery due to continued stagnation in capital investment and the employment environment.

In the digital consumer equipment market, which is a principal market for Kyocera Corporation and its consolidated subsidiaries (Kyocera Group or Kyocera), production activities showed signs of recovery, notably for mobile phone handsets and personal computers (PCs), due to the end of inventory adjustments. The solar energy market expanded firmly, with demand in Japan in particular increasing rapidly due to support from governmental subsidy systems.

Consolidated Financial Results:

Despite deterioration of the business environment until the second quarter (July 1, 2009 to September 30, 2009), the profitability of the components business and the equipment business improved significantly from the third quarter (October 1, 2009 to December 31, 2009). Consolidated net sales for fiscal 2010, however, amounted to ¥1,073,805 million, a decrease of 4.9% compared with fiscal 2009, mainly due to the impact of appreciation of the yen against the Euro and U.S. dollar.

In fiscal 2010 Kyocera continued working hard to improve profitability and strengthen the foundations of each business from fiscal 2009 by promoting cost-cutting measures including manufacturing cost reductions, and by improving productivity throughout the Kyocera Group. As a result, profit from operations for fiscal 2010 increased by 47.1% to ¥63,860 million, and income before income taxes increased by 8.6% to ¥60,798 million, despite the decline in sales and the recording of a one-time loss relating to WILLCOM, Inc.* Net income attributable to shareholders of Kyocera Corporation for fiscal 2010 amounted to ¥40,095 million, an increase of 35.9% compared with fiscal 2009.

* For details, please refer to page 7, A loss relating to WILLCOM, Inc.

Average exchange rates for fiscal 2010 were ¥93 to the U.S. dollar and ¥131 to the Euro, marking appreciation by ¥8 (approximately 8%) and ¥12 (approximately 8%), respectively, compared with those for fiscal 2009. This appreciation resulted in declines in net sales and income before income taxes after translation into yen for fiscal 2010 by approximately ¥49.0 billion and ¥13.5 billion, respectively, compared with fiscal 2009.

Highlights of Consolidated Results

Notes:

1. In fiscal 2007, Kyocera Corporation sold its shares of Kyocera Leasing Co., Ltd., a subsidiary engaged in financing services. As a result, business results and profit on sale of its shares of Kyocera Leasing Co., Ltd. for fiscal 2007 were recorded as income (or loss) from discontinued operations in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States.
2. In fiscal 2007, income from continuing operations before income taxes and minority interests are presented in the income before income taxes section.
3. Net income attributable to shareholders of Kyocera Corporation is computed in the same manner as net income of fiscal years from fiscal 2007 through fiscal 2009.
4. The amounts, numbers of shares and ratios (%) in this Report are rounded to the nearest unit.
5. Graphs in this report are presented solely for the reference.

Table of Contents

Consolidated Results by Reporting Segment

Components Business:

Net sales: ¥550,535 million, down 4.6% year on year

Operating profit: ¥49,535 million, up 55.6% year on year

(1) Fine Ceramic Parts Group

Net sales: ¥53,056 million, down 14.1% year on year

Operating profit: -¥788 million, down ¥548 million year on year

Demand for digital consumer equipment parts, such as sapphire substrates for LEDs, has been on a recovery track since the commencement of fiscal 2010, and demand for industrial machinery components such as semiconductor fabrication equipment components and automotive components began to recover from the third quarter as well. However, such demand remained at a low level compared with fiscal 2009, and as a result sales and operating profit in this reporting segment for fiscal 2010 both decreased compared with fiscal 2009.

(2) Semiconductor Parts Group

Net sales: ¥140,507 million, up 4.0% year on year

Operating profit: ¥17,235 million, up 98.8% year on year

Demand for ceramic packages for crystal and SAW devices and for CCD/CMOS sensors was strong, in line with resurgence in production of mobile phone handsets and digital cameras, etc. In addition, demand for organic packages showed signs of recovery. As a result, sales in this reporting segment for fiscal 2010 as a whole increased compared with fiscal 2009. Operating profit for fiscal 2010 increased significantly compared with fiscal 2009, due mainly to manufacturing cost reductions and improved productivity.

Table of Contents

(3) Applied Ceramic Products Group

Net sales: ¥157,033 million, up 5.5% year on year
Operating profit: ¥19,858 million, down 27.7% year on year

Overall sales in this reporting segment for fiscal 2010 increased compared with fiscal 2009. This was due to a significant increase in sales in the solar energy business resulting from efforts to expand production capacity for solar cells coupled with aggressive sales expansion measures to meet rising demand in Japan driven by governmental subsidy policies. Operating profit decreased compared with fiscal 2009 due to a decline in selling prices in the solar energy business in European and U.S. markets, to appreciation of the yen, and to deterioration in the cutting tools market.

(4) Electronic Device Group

Net sales: ¥199,939 million, down 13.5% year on year
Operating profit: ¥13,230 million, up ¥17,300 million year on year

Although demand for ceramic capacitors, timing devices and connectors, etc. has recovered since the commencement of fiscal 2010 due to a recovery in production activities for digital consumer equipment, it did not reach the level recorded in fiscal 2009. The appreciation of the yen also produced a negative impact on sales. As a result, overall sales in this reporting segment for fiscal 2010 decreased compared with fiscal 2009. Operating profit for fiscal 2010 improved significantly compared with fiscal 2009, however, as a result of efforts to reduce manufacturing costs and to enhance productivity throughout the Kyocera Group.

Table of Contents

Equipment Business:

Net sales: ¥421,483 million, down 5.9% year on year
Operating profit: ¥7,365 million, up ¥11,581 million year on year
(1) Telecommunications Equipment Group

Net sales: ¥189,118 million, down 13.5% year on year
Operating profit: -¥14,726 million, improved by ¥2,987 million year on year

Sales in this reporting segment for fiscal 2010 decreased compared with fiscal 2009 amid a tough business environment attributable to weakened replacement demand for mobile phone handsets in the Japanese market and sluggish sales of mobile phone handsets in the U.S. market, despite efforts to expand sales of new models. Operating loss for fiscal 2010 decreased compared with fiscal 2009 despite the recognition of an impairment loss on account receivables from WILLCOM, Inc. in the fourth quarter (January 1 to March 31, 2010), due to improved profitability arising from streamlining of operations, including reorganization of sales and development systems, and cost reductions.

(2) Information Equipment Group

Net sales: ¥232,365 million, up 1.3% year on year
Operating profit: ¥22,091 million, up 63.7% year on year

Sales in this reporting segment for fiscal 2010 increased slightly compared with fiscal 2009, due mainly to increased sales of new products and the contribution from new subsidiaries joined from the fourth quarter of fiscal 2009, despite persistent stagnation in demand due to severe curtailment of information technology investment by both Japanese and overseas customers and by yen appreciation. Operating profit for fiscal 2010 increased compared with fiscal 2009, mainly due to a sales increase in color machines and manufacturing cost reductions.

Table of Contents

Others:

Net sales: ¥124,577 million, down 1.2% year on year

Operating profit: ¥6,769 million, down 52.0% year on year

Although sales in Kyocera Communication Systems Co., Ltd. increased, sales from other consolidated subsidiaries as a whole decreased due to the stagnant business climate. As a result, sales in this reporting segment for fiscal 2010 decreased slightly compared with fiscal 2009. Operating profit for fiscal 2010 decreased compared with fiscal 2009, due to the absence of gains on sales of real estate, etc. which was recorded in fiscal 2009 in the amount of ¥9,352 million.

A loss relating to WILLCOM, Inc.:

On February 18, 2010, WILLCOM, Inc. filed a petition with the Tokyo District Court for commencement of corporate reorganization procedures, and on March 12, 2010, the Tokyo District Court decided to commence such procedures. During the third quarter, Kyocera recognized an impairment loss of ¥19,987 million on its investment in WILLCOM, Inc., reflecting Kyocera's belief that the decline in the value of such investment will not be of temporary nature. Taking into consideration the decision to commence corporate reorganization procedures, and based on publicly disclosed information such as the outline of the business revitalization plan of WILLCOM, Inc., etc., Kyocera also recognized an impairment loss of ¥8,961 million on its account receivables from WILLCOM, Inc. The one time impacts relating to WILLCOM, Inc. on Kyocera's profit from operations and income before income taxes for fiscal 2010 were losses of ¥8,961 million and ¥28,948 million, respectively.

Table of Contents

(2) Capital Expenditures

During fiscal 2010, Kyocera made capital expenditures to increase production volume in the solar energy business. From the fourth quarter of fiscal 2009, Kyocera substantially slowed down capital expenditures in other businesses in reaction to the declining business environment. As a result, capital expenditures for fiscal 2010 totaled ¥37,869 million, a decrease of ¥25,186 million (39.9%) compared with fiscal 2009.

Required funds for fiscal 2010 were mainly financed from internal funds.

(3) Management Challenges

Kyocera aims to strengthen existing businesses, pursue synergies among businesses, and create new businesses through implementation of the Kyocera Philosophy, our corporate philosophy and the Amoeba Management System, our own management method. As a result of efforts to reduce manufacturing costs and improve profitability throughout the Kyocera Group in response to sharp deterioration in the business environment since the second half of fiscal 2009, Kyocera was able to strengthen operational foundation in each business in fiscal 2010. The Kyocera Group's business environment in fiscal 2011 is expected to pick up relative to fiscal 2010, and Kyocera will tackle the following challenges to further strengthen the foundation in each business and seize opportunities for business growth, with the goal of becoming a high-growth, highly-profitable company.

(i) Enhance profitability in the information and communications market

Demand for digital consumer equipment such as mobile phones and PCs is expected to show continuing growth in line with the popularization of information and communication technologies and the expansion of the economies of emerging countries. Aiming to seize opportunities for growth, Kyocera will strive to secure orders in the components business by launching new compact and advanced products for digital consumer equipment, and reinforcing production capacity. In the Telecommunications Equipment Group, Kyocera seeks to expand sales through continuous introduction of new models to markets worldwide, including smartphones, etc. in overseas markets. In addition, efforts will be made to enhance profitability by strengthening development and manufacturing systems.

(ii) Expand business in the environment and energy market

The solar energy market is expected to continue expanding going forward, backed by heightened environmental awareness around the world coupled with subsidy policies in various countries. Kyocera will continue with aggressive capital investment in Japan and overseas to strengthen its production capacity for solar cells and modules as a means to steadily secure orders and growth in line with strong demand. In concrete terms, Kyocera plans to commence production of solar cells at the Yasu Plant in Shiga Prefecture in the summer of 2010, and boost production capacity at plants manufacturing solar modules globally. Kyocera also aims to increase sales and profits in the solar energy business through efforts to consistently reduce manufacturing costs and improve the conversion efficiency of solar cells. Further, Kyocera will strengthen development of solid oxide fuel cells (SOFCs) for residential use, with the goal of swift practical application that will contribute to expansion of business in the environment and energy market.

(iii) Strengthen new product development by pursuing synergies

Kyocera aims to strengthen development of new products by integrating technologies among its divisions, including each business division and the R&D division, etc., and to introduce distinctive products to the market in a timely manner. Specifically, Kyocera will develop base stations and terminals for the next-generation Long Term Evolution communication protocol by integrating technologies between its telecommunications equipment and electronic component businesses, and will also develop automotive cameras that improve safety in automobiles by integrating technologies between its automotive components and optical components businesses.

- In fiscal 2007, amid a favorable market environment manifesting strong demand for digital consumer equipment, net sales in the components business and the equipment business increased compared with fiscal 2006. Also all reporting segments in the components business and the equipment business recorded increases in profits. Net income attributable to shareholders of Kyocera Corporation increased due to tax refunds pursuant to the voidance of a portion of the original assessment relating to transfer pricing adjustment.
- Consolidated net sales for fiscal 2008 marked the highest in Kyocera's history. This result was attributable to an increase in net sales in the components business, with particular support from the solar energy business, which more than offset a decrease in net sales in the equipment business. Operating profit in the equipment business increased considerably due to the improvement of profitability, however, operating profit in the components business decreased due to increased depreciation. As a result, net income attributable to shareholders of Kyocera Corporation remained at the same level compared with fiscal 2007.
- Consolidated net sales for fiscal 2009 decreased compared with fiscal 2008, due primarily to the impact of a decrease in demand under the influence of the deteriorating business environment and to appreciation of the yen. Net income attributable to shareholders of Kyocera Corporation decreased compared with fiscal 2008 due mainly to such decrease in demand and to product selling price erosion.
- Performance for fiscal 2010 is as stated in (1) Business Progress and Results on previous pages.

Major consolidated subsidiaries: Kyocera Mita Corporation, AVX Corporation and Kyocera International, Inc.

Major non-consolidated subsidiary: Kyoto Purple Sanga Co., Ltd.

This subsidiary is excluded from the scope of consolidation because its total assets, net sales, net income attributable to shareholders of Kyocera Corporation and retained earnings, etc. are immaterial to a reasonable judgment of the consolidated financial condition and business results of Kyocera.

(2) Scope of application of the equity method

Number of non-consolidated subsidiaries and affiliates accounted for by the equity method: 12

Major affiliate accounted for by the equity method: Miyaki Electric Mfg. Co., Ltd.

(3) Changes in scope of consolidation

Decrease by liquidation: 19, Kyocera Wireless (India) Pvt. Ltd. and others

(4) Changes in scope of application of the equity method

Increase by foundation: 1, Accuver Co., Ltd.

Excluded due to court decision to commence corporate reorganization procedures: 1, Willcom, Inc.

(5) Summary of significant accounting policies

(i) Standards of preparation of consolidated financial statements

The consolidated financial statements are prepared in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States pursuant to paragraph 1 of Article 3 of the supplementary provisions (Act of Justice Ministry No. 46 issued and effective in 2009) of the Corporate Calculation Rules of Japan. Certain disclosure and footnotes required under principles generally accepted in the United States are omitted pursuant to the same provision.

(ii) Valuation of inventories

Edgar Filing: KYOCERA CORP - Form 6-K

Finished goods and work in process are mainly stated at the lower of cost or market, the cost being determined by the average method. Other inventories are mainly stated at the lower of cost or market, the cost being determined by the first-in, first-out method.

(iii) Valuation of securities

Kyocera has adopted FSAB ASC (ASC) 320, Debt and Equity Securities. Held-to-maturity securities are recorded at amortized cost. Available-for-sale securities are recorded at fair value, with unrealized gains and losses excluded from income and recorded in accumulated other comprehensive income, net of tax. Non-marketable equity securities are recorded using the cost method.

(iv) Depreciation method for property, plant and equipment

Depreciation is computed based mainly on the declining-balance method.

(v) Goodwill and other intangible assets

Kyocera has adopted ASC 350, Intangibles Goodwill and Other. Goodwill and intangible assets with indefinite useful lives, rather than being amortized, are tested for impairment at least annually, and also following any events and changes in circumstances that might lead to impairment. Intangible assets with definite useful lives are amortized over their respective estimate useful lives.

Table of Contents

(vi) Accounting for allowance and accruals

Allowance for doubtful accounts:

In anticipation of uncollectible accounts receivable, Kyocera provides allowance for doubtful accounts, for general accounts receivable, based on the past actual ratio of losses on bad debts; and, for certain specific doubtful accounts receivable, based on estimates of uncollectible amounts pursuant to analysis of individual receivables.

Allowances for sales returns:

Kyocera records an estimated sales return allowance at the time of sales based on historical return experience.

Accrued pension and severance liabilities:

Kyocera has adopted ASC 715, Compensation Retirement Benefits. Kyocera recognizes the overfunded or underfunded status of its defined benefit postretirement plans as an asset or liability, as the case may be, in the consolidated balance sheet and recognizes changes in the funded status during the year as changes in the comprehensive income of such year. Prior service cost is amortized by the straight-line method over the average remaining service period of employees. Actuarial gain or loss is recognized by amortizing a portion in excess of 10% of the greater of the projected benefit obligations or the market-related value of plan assets by the straight-line method over the average remaining service period of employees.

(6) Accounting change

Kyocera adopted ASC 105, Generally Accepted Accounting Principles (former Statement of Financial Accounting Standards (SFAS) No. 168, The FASB Accounting Standards Codification and Hierarchy of Generally Accepted Accounting Principles a replacement of FASB Statement No. 162) on July 1, 2009. This accounting standard compiles all generally accepted accounting principles in the U.S. and establishes Accounting Standards Codification as the single official source of authoritative generally accepted accounting standards. The adoption of this accounting standard had no impact on Kyocera's consolidated results of operations and financial position.

Kyocera adopted ASC 805, Business Combinations (former SFAS No. 141 (revised 2007), Business Combinations) on April 1, 2009, which requires that assets, liabilities and noncontrolling interests be measured at fair value. Under this accounting standard, transaction and restructuring costs are required to be generally expensed, and contingent consideration and in-process research and development are required to be recorded at fair value on the acquisition date as a part of the fair value of an acquired business. Any tax adjustment made after the measurement period impacts on income tax expenses. This accounting standard also requires companies to recognize an asset acquired or a liability assumed in a business combination that arises from a contingency at fair value on the acquisition date, if the acquisition-date fair value of that asset or liability can be determined during the measurement period. The adoption of this accounting standard had no material impact on Kyocera's consolidated results of operations and financial position.

Kyocera adopted ASC 810, Consolidation (former SFAS No. 160, Noncontrolling Interests in Consolidated Financial Statements an Amendment of Accounting Research Bulletin No. 51) on April 1, 2009. This accounting standard requires that a noncontrolling interest in a subsidiary is an ownership interest in the consolidated entity that should be reported as equity in the consolidated balance sheets, and requires that changes in a parent's ownership interest while the parent retains its controlling financial interest in its subsidiary shall be accounted for as equity transactions. Following the adoption of this accounting standard, noncontrolling interests that were previously referred to as minority interests and classified between total liabilities and shareholders' equity on the consolidated balance sheets, were included as a separate component of total equity. The presentation of consolidated statements of income has also been changed. The adoption of this accounting standard had no material impact on Kyocera's consolidated results of operations and financial position.

Table of Contents4. Notes to Financial Instruments

(1) Notes to Financial Instruments

Kyocera refrains from making any speculative transactions and always maintains a high level of capital liquidity to ensure the utmost stability in its fund management. Operating receivables such as notes receivable and accounts receivable are exposed to customer credit risk. Kyocera seeks to reduce this risk in accordance with its credit management policies. Kyocera is exposed to market risk, including changes in foreign currency exchange rates, interests and equity prices. In order to hedge against these risks, Kyocera uses derivative financial instruments. Kyocera does not hold or issue derivative financial instruments for trading purposes. Kyocera enters into foreign currency forward contracts, interest rate swaps and currency swaps. Kyocera regularly assesses these market risks based on policies and procedures established to protect against the adverse effects of these risks and other potential exposures, primarily by reference to the market value of financial instruments.

Kyocera has marketable equity securities, debt securities and non-marketable equity securities. Kyocera is currently a major shareholder of KDDI Corporation. At March 31, 2010, the unrealized gain on the shares of KDDI Corporation was ¥28,140 million.

(2) Fair Value of Financial Instruments

The fair values of financial instruments at March 31, 2010 and methods and assumption used to estimate such fair values were as follows:

	Carrying amount	Fair Value	Difference
(Yen in millions)
Assets (a)
Investments in debt securities, current	11,644	11,662	18
Investments in debt and equity securities, long term	370,124	370,210	86
Other long-term investments	10,534	10,534
Total	392,302	392,406	104
Liabilities (b)
Long term debt (including due within one year)	42,523	42,710	187

Derivatives not designated as hedging instruments	(145)	(145)
Total	(277)	(277)

Note: Assets and liabilities of derivative transactions are recorded in net amount. Liabilities are presented by ().

(a) The fair value is estimated based on quoted market prices. It was not practicable to estimate the fair value of non-marketable equity securities because of the lack of market price and difficulty in estimating fair value without incurring excessive cost, and Kyocera did not identify any events or changes in circumstances that may have had a significant adverse effect on these investments. The aggregated carrying amounts of these investments included in the above table at March 31, 2010 was ¥10,252 million.

(b)

Edgar Filing: KYOCERA CORP - Form 6-K

The fair value is estimated by discounting cash flows, using current interest rates for instruments with similar terms and remaining maturities at the end of fiscal 2010.

(c) The fair value is estimated based on quotes from financial institutions at the end of fiscal 2010. Cash and cash equivalents, other short-term investments, trade notes receivable, trade accounts receivable, short-term borrowings, trade notes and accounts payable, and other notes and accounts payable approximate fair value because of the short maturity of these instruments.

Notes to Financial Statements

1. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

(1) Standards and methods of valuation of assets

Held-to-maturity securities:	Amortized cost method (straight-line method)
Investments in subsidiaries and affiliates:	Cost determined by the moving average method
Other securities:
Marketable:	Based on market price as of the balance sheet date (unrealized gains and losses on such securities are reported in stockholders' equity, and cost is determined by the moving average method)
Non-marketable:	Cost determined by the moving average method
Derivative financial instruments:	Mark-to-market method
Inventories:	Cost determined based on acquisition costs with adjustment by write-down taking into consideration decline of profitability
Finished goods, merchandise and work in process:	The cost of finished goods and work in process are mainly determined by the average cost method. The cost of merchandise is determined mainly by the last purchase method.
Raw materials and supplies:	Raw materials and supplies, except those for telecommunications equipment, are valued at cost, the cost being determined by the last purchase method. Raw materials for telecommunications equipment are valued at cost, the cost being determined by the first-in, first-out method.

(2) Depreciation of non-current assets:

Tangible fixed assets (except for leased assets):	Depreciation is computed at rates based on the estimated useful lives of assets using the declining-balance method.
---	---

The principal estimated useful lives are as follows:

Buildings and structures:

2 years - 33 years

Machinery and equipment, and Tools, furniture and fixtures:

2 years - 10 years

Intangible fixed assets (except for leased assets):	Amortization is computed using the straight-line method based on, in the case of some patents, the depreciation period set by Kyocera Corporation, and, in the case of software for its own use, the useful life thereof in Kyocera Corporation (two years).
---	--

Leased assets	Straight-line method, using lease periods as the estimated useful lives of such assets.
---------------	---

Long-term prepaid expenses:	Amortization is computed using the straight-line method based on the estimated useful lives of assets.
-----------------------------	--

(3) Accounting for allowances and accruals

Allowances for doubtful accounts:	In anticipation of uncollectible accounts receivable, Kyocera Corporation provides allowance for doubtful accounts, for general accounts receivable, based on the past actual ratio of losses on bad debts; and, for certain specific doubtful accounts receivable, based on estimates of uncollectible amounts pursuant to analysis of individual receivables.
Accrued bonuses for employees:	In order to prepare for bonuses to employees, accrued bonuses are provided based on the amounts expected to be paid, which are determined based on actual payments made in the previous fiscal year.
Accrued bonuses for Directors:	In order to prepare for bonuses to Directors, accrued bonuses are provided based on the amounts expected to be paid.
Warranty reserves:	Warranty reserves are provided to prepare for the cost of after sales service for telecommunications equipment and applied ceramic products based upon the amounts expected to be paid, which are determined taking into account actual payments made in the past, etc.
Allowances for sales returns:	Allowances for sales returns are provided to prepare for losses from write-off of products as a result of product returns based on the past actual return ratio of unaccepted products multiplied by the amount of the uninspected products at the end of the fiscal year.
Accrued pension and severance costs:	In order to prepare for provision of retirement benefits to employees, accrued pension and severance costs are recognized based on projected benefit obligations and plan assets as of the balance sheet date. Unrecognized prior year service cost is amortized over the estimated average remaining service period of employees using the straight-line method. Actuarial gains or losses are amortized over the estimated average remaining service period of employees using the straight-line method following the year in which they are incurred.

(4) Other significant policies

Consumption taxes:	Consumption taxes withheld upon sale and consumption taxes paid for purchases of goods and services are not included in the amounts of the respective revenue and cost or expense items in the accompanying statements of income.
