The following is a communication from John Haley, Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of Towers Watson & Co. From: John Haley

Subject: Merger Milestone: S-4 Now Available

As you've seen in the Integration Updates coming from Gene Wickes, our merger efforts are well underway, and we've been making terrific progress toward becoming Willis Towers Watson. To the integration teams who have been building a strong foundation for the combined organization and to all of our associates, whose focus on delivering outstanding results for our clients hasn't wavered - thank you.

I'm very pleased to share that we've reached another milestone in our efforts to form Willis Towers Watson. Yesterday, Towers Watson and Willis filed a joint proxy statement/prospectus, which is part of a registration statement on Form S-4, filed by Willis with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC). The S-4 outlines the process we intend to follow to complete the all stock transaction in this merger of equals.

As noted in earlier communications, Towers Watson's and Willis' respective boards both unanimously recommended that shareholders vote yes to the merger and related proposals, which would result in the creation of Willis Towers Watson. The date of the shareholder vote on the transaction will be announced when that information becomes available.

Like many regulatory documents, the S-4 is publicly available and is comprehensive. We appreciate that the information contained in the S-4 is especially important to our associates who hold Towers Watson stock. It addresses a number of questions that shareholders may have, and outlines many important points, including the following, among others:

Describes the potential benefits that come from bringing together our respective organizations.

Includes historical financial information of both companies, board and executive profiles and general disclosure about the tax consequences of the transaction to Towers Watson shareholders. We are working with our Legal team to provide questions and answers on the tax consequences of this transaction in our next Integration Update.

Summarizes the background on how the transaction came together and the terms and conditions of the merger.

The release of this joint proxy statement/prospectus may attract attention from clients, the media and other stakeholders. If you are approached by the media with questions, please do not comment and instead direct them immediately to Lisa Swatland in Marketing or Aida Sukys in Investor Relations.

In the coming weeks, we will share our third Integration Update, including new FAQs. In the meantime, please send a note to the Internal Communication and Change Management mailbox with any questions or suggestions.

Once again, thank you for your support as Willis Towers Watson begins to take shape. I look forward to sharing more merger milestones with you in the near future.

John
