NOTES TO THE QUARTERLY INFORMATION (UNAUDITED)

Period from July 1 to September 30 2006 and 2005

(In thousands of reais)

2. Basis of Preparation and Presentation of the Quarterly Information Continued

Additionally, the Management started to adopt the following accounting practices:

a) Sale and leaseback transactions

The gains on sale-leaseback transactions are fully recognized as non-operational results.

b) Return conditions

The Company operates leased aircraft based on operating lease agreements. The lease agreements establish the conditions in which the aircraft will have to be returned at the end of the leasing period. Depending on the aircraft and its parts utilization and maintenance conditions, at the date of the end of the agreement, the Company may be asked to make additional payments to the lessor regarding such contractual obligations. The Company accrues those costs, if any, on the date they can be estimated and probable. Currently there is no accrual constituted for this purpose.

c) Information on disclosures made based on USGAAP

The accounting practices adopted in Brazil differ from accounting principles generally accepted in the United States USGAAP applicable to the air transportation segment, especially the allocation of maintenance expenses to income. At September 30, 2006, the net income for the year, in accordance with accounting practices adopted in Brazil (BRGAAP), was R$ 14,598 higher (R$ 88,729 at December 31, 2005) due to this difference and the respective tax effects in comparison with net income under USGAAP. At this same date, shareholder's equity presented in the Company's corporate Quarterly Information was R$237,763 (R$ 249,416 at December 31, 2005) lower due to, mainly, the gains on aircraft sale and leaseback transactions, the accumulated difference in the allocation of maintenance expenses and respective tax effects, also as the result of the accounting for stock options granted to executives and employees. There are also certain differences in the classification of assets, liabilities and income items. The Company discloses significant information on transactions in a consistent way in the corporate Quarterly Information and in accordance with USGAAP.

The firm orders have an approximate value of R$ 9,327 million (corresponding to approximately US$ 4,290 million) based on the aircraft list price, including estimated amounts for contractual price escalations and pre-delivery deposits during the phase of the aircraft construction. The commitments arising from the aircraft acquisition not include the portion that will be financed by long-term financings with guarantee of the aircraft by the U.S. Exim Bank (Exim), corresponding to 85% of the total cost of the aircraft. The Company has entered into sale-leaseback agreements for eight Boeing 737-800 Next Generation aircraft, six of which were delivered during the third quarter of 2006, and two which will be delivered during the fourth quarter of 2006.

The weighted average fair values on the granting dates of the stock options, at September 30, 2006, were R$ 18.81 and R$ 38.72 respectively, and they were estimated based on the Black-Scholes stock option pricing model, assuming a 1.5 % dividend payment, an expected volatility of approximately 46%, a weighted average risk free rate of 14.7 % and a average maturity of 3.8 years.

The accounting practices adopted in Brazil do not require recognition of compensation expenses through the Company's stock options. If the Company had recorded in its results the compensation expenses by means of stock options, based on the fair value on the date of the options granting, the income of the third quarter of 2006 would have been R$ 275 lower (R$ 2,091 in the third quarter of 2005 and R$ 8,632 in the year of 2005).

18. Financial Derivative Instruments

The Company is exposed to several market risks arising from its operations. Such risks involve mainly the effects of changes in fuel price and foreign exchange rate risk, in view that its revenues are generated in Reais and the Company has significant commitments in US dollars, credit risks and interest rate risks. The Company uses derivative financial instruments to minimize those risks. The Company maintains a formal risk management policy under the management of its executive officers, its Risk Policy Committee and its Board of Directors.

The management of these risks is performed through control policies, establishing limits, as well as other monitoring techniques, mainly mathematical models adopted for the continuous monitoring of exposures. The exclusive investment funds in which the Company and its subsidiary Gol are quota holders are used as means for the risk coverage contracting according to the Company's risk management policies.

Airlines are exposed to aircraft fuel price change effects. Aircraft fuel consumption in the third quarter of 2006 and 2005 represented approximately 42.4% and 38.2% of the Company's operating expenses, respectively. The Company periodically uses future contracts, swaps and oil options and its derivatives to manage those risks. The purpose of the fuel hedge is the fuel acquisition operating expenses. As the aircraft fuel is not traded on a commodities exchange, the liquidity and alternatives for contracting hedge operations of that item are limited. However, the Company has found effective commodities to hedge aircraft fuel costs, mainly crude oil. Historically, oil prices have been highly related to aircraft fuel prices, which makes oil derivatives effective in compensating oil price fluctuations, in order to provide short-term protection against sudden fuel price increases. The futures contracts are listed on NYMEX, swaps are contracted with prime international banks and the options can be either those listed on NYMEX or those traded with prime international banks.

The Company also engages in financial derivative instruments agreements with first-tier banks for cash management purposes. The financial derivative instruments are composed of synthetic fixed income option agreements and swaps contracts to obtain the Brazilian overnight deposit rate for investments made at fixed-rates or denominated in dollars.

18. Derivative Financial Instruments Continueda) Fuel price risk

The Company's derivatives contracts, at September 30, 2006, are summarized as follows (in thousands, except otherwise indicated):

	09.30.2006	12.31.2005
Fair value of derivative financial instruments at the end of the period	R$ (3,526)	R$ 8,464
Average term (months)	5	8

Gains (Losses) with hedge ineffectiveness recognized as financial income	R$ (322)	-
Current percentage of hedged consumption (during the quarter)	85%	52%

The Company utilizes financial derivative instruments as hedges to decrease its exposure to jet fuel price increases for short-term time frames. The Company currently has a combination of purchased call options, collar structures, and fixed price swap agreements in place to hedge approximately 79%, 34% and 29% of its jet fuel requirements for the fourth quarter of 2006, first quarter of 2007 and second quarter of 2007, respectively, at average crude equivalent prices of approximately US$ 76, US$ 69 and US$ 72 per barrel, respectively.

The Company classifies fuel hedge as cash flow hedge, and recognizes the changes of market fair value of effective hedges accounted in the shareholders' equity until the hedged fuel is consumed. The fuel hedge effectiveness is estimated based on correlation statistical methods or by the proportion of fuel purchase expense variations that are offset by the fair market value variation of derivatives. Effective hedge results are recorded as decrease or increase in the cost of acquisition of fuel, and the hedge results that are not effective are recognized as financial income/expenses. Ineffective hedges arise when the change in the value of derivatives is not between 80% and 120% of the hedged fuel value variation. When the aircraft fuel is consumed and the related derivative financial instrument is settled, the unrealized gains or losses recorded in shareholders' equity are recognized as aircraft fuel expenses. The Company is exposed to the risk that periodic changes will not be effective, as defined, or that the derivatives will no longer qualify for recording unrealized gains or losses in the equity. As periodic changes in the fair value of derivatives are ineffective, such ineffectiveness is recognized in the same period as the estimated fuel consumption occurs.

18. Derivative Financial Instruments Continueda) Fuel price risk Continued

Ineffectiveness is inherent in hedging jet fuel with derivative positions based in other crude oil related commodities, especially given the magnitude of the current fair market value of the Company's fuel hedge derivatives and the recent volatility in the prices of refined products. The Company has determined that specific hedges will not regain effectiveness in the time period remaining until settlement. Any changes in fair value of the derivative instruments are marked to market through earnings in the period of change.

During the three months ended September 30, 2006, the Company recognized approximately R$215 (US$ 98) of additional net losses in Others (gains) losses, net, related to the ineffectiveness of its hedges and the loss of hedge accounting for certain hedges. Of this net total, approximately R$107 (US$ 49) was ineffectiveness expense and mark-to-market losses related to contracts that settled during second third quarter 2006. As of September 30, 2006 there was R$2,327 (US$ 1,070) on unrealized losses with jet fuel hedges recorded in comprehensive income.

The fair market value of swaps is estimated by discounted cash flow methods, and the fair value of the options is estimated by the Black-Scholes model adapted to commodities options.

The Company's Management believes that the derivatives it uses are extremely correlated to the US dollar/real foreign exchange rate in order to provide short-term protection to foreign exchange rate changes. The Company classifies the US dollar hedge as cash flow hedges and recognizes the fair market value variations of highly effective hedges in the same period the estimated expenses which are the purpose of the hedge occur. The market value changes of the highly effective hedges are recorded in Financial Revenues or Expenses until the period the hedged item is recognized, then they are recognized as decrease or increase in incurred expenses. The market value changes of hedges that are not highly effective are recognized as financial revenue or expense. The US dollar hedge effectiveness is estimated by statistical correlation methods or by the proportion of expenses variation that are offset by the fair market value variation of the derivatives.

The fair market value of swaps is estimated by discounted cash flow methods; the fair value of options is estimated by the Black-Scholes model adapted to the currency options; and the futures fair value refers to the last owed or receivable adjustment already accounted and not settled yet.

The Company uses short-term derivative financial instruments. The following table summarizes the position of the foreign exchange derivative contracts (in thousands, except otherwise indicated):

c) Credit risk of financial derivative instruments

The derivative financial instruments used by the Company are conducted with top quality credit counterparts, AA+ or better rated international banks, according to Moody's and Fitch agencies or international futures exchange or the Brazilian Mercantile and Futures Exchange (BM&F). The Company believes that the risk of not receiving the owed amounts by its counterparts in the derivatives operations is not material.

d) Interest rate risk Continued

The Company's results are also affected by fluctuations in the interest rates in Brazil, applicable both to financial investments, short-term investments, liabilities in real and to those applicable to US dollar indexed obligations, due to the impact of such changes in the market value of derivative financial instruments conducted in Brazil, in the market value of prefixed securities in real and in the remuneration of the cash balance and financial investments. The Company uses Interbank Deposit futures of the Brazilian Mercantile and Futures Exchange (BM&F) to protect itself from domestic interest rate fluctuations on the prefixed portion of its investments. At September 30, 2006, the nominal value of Interbank Deposit futures contracts traded on the Brazilian Mercantile and Futures Exchange (BM&F) totaled R$ 33,500 with periods of up to 3 years, with a total fair market value of R$ (14,280) corresponding to the last owed or receivable adjustment, already estimated and not yet settled. The total variations in market value, payments and receivables related to the DI futures are recognized as increase or decrease in financial revenues in the same period they occur.

e) Derivatives contracts applied in cash management

The Company utilizes financial derivatives instruments for cash management purposes. The Company enters into option contracts known as boxes with first tier banks and registered in the Brazilian CETIP clearing house with the objective of investing cash at pre-fixed rates. As of September 30, 2006, the total amount invested in boxes was R$ 69,000 with average term of 15 days. The Company also utilizes swaps contracts to change the remuneration of part of its short term investments to the Brazilian overnight deposit rate, the CDI. Investments in box combinations are swapped from fixed rate to a percentage of the CDI. Investments in dollar-denominated securities are swapped from dollar-based remuneration to Brazilian reais plus a percentage of CDI rate. As of September 30, 2006, the notional amount of fixed-rate swaps to CDI was R$114,000 with a fair value of R$ (54); and the notional amount of currency swaps to CDI was R$ 245,656 with a fair value or R$ 4,404. The changes in fair value of these swaps is reflected in financial income in the period of change.

19. Insurance Coverage

Company Management maintains an insurance coverage in amounts that it deems necessary to cover possible accidents, due to the nature of its assets and the risks inherent to its activity, observing the limits established in lease agreements. On September 30, 2006 the insurance coverage, by nature, considering GOL's aircraft fleet and in relation to the maximum indemnifiable amounts, is the following:

Aeronautic Type	R$ (000)	US$ (000)
Warranty Hull	3,265,068	1,501,733
Civil Liability per occurrence/aircraft	1,630,650	750,000
Warranty Hull/War	3,265,068	1,501,733
Inventories	206,549	95,000

By means of Law 10,605, as of December 18, 2002, the Brazilian government undertook to supplement possible civil liability expenses against third parties caused by acts of war or terrorist attacks, occurred in Brazil or abroad, for which GOL may be demanded, for the amounts that exceed the insurance policy limit effective at September 10, 2001, limited to the equivalent in reais to one billion US dollar.

On September 29, 2006, an aircraft performing Gol Airlines Flight 1907 from Manaus enroute to Rio with a stop in Brasilia, was involved in a mid-air collision with a aircraft of ExcelAir. The Gol aircraft, a new Boeing 737-800 Next Generation, went down in the Amazon forest and there were no survivor among the 148 passengers and six crew members. The ExcelAir aircraft, a new Embraer Legacy 135 BJ, performed an emergency landing and all of its seven occupants were unharmed. The Company continues to cooperate fully with all regulatory and investigatory agencies to determine the cause of this accident. Presently, the Company does not have sufficient information to estimate the amount of claims relating to this accident. The Company maintains insurance for the coverage of these risks and liabilities. The payments for the aircraft will be covered by the insurance maintained. The Company does not expect any liabilities arising from the accident involving Flight 1907 to have a material adverse effect on the financial position or results of operation of the Company.
