Clarifications about News

(Rio de Janeiro, May 18 2009). PETRÓLEO BRASILEIRO S/A - PETROBRAS, [Bovespa: PETR3/PETR4, NYSE: PBR/PBRA, Latibex: XPBR/XPBRA, BCBA: APBR/APBRA], a Brazilian international energy company, clarifies an article published by the Folha de São Paulo newspaper titled "Petrobras Balance Sheet omitted Fiscal change".

The Company clarifies that the model used to calculate the taxes payment in 2008 is supported by the legislation in effect, according to the Company's understanding, and is unrelated to accounting issues.

According to the Brazilian Accounting Practices (BR GAAP), taxes are accounted under the accrual basis, and when they differ from the fiscal calculation, which sometimes is under the cash basis, the difference is presented as deferred taxes (CVM Deliberation # 273). Therefore, there is no accounting issue related to the balance sheet, considering that the Company accounts its taxes under the accrual bases, and will have to continue doing so.

The effect of calculating the tax payment incurring on the exchange variation under the cash basis, instead of the accrual basis, is that they are accounted as Deferred Income Tax and Social Contributions in the 2008 Financial Statements submitted to the Securities and Exchange Commission of Brazil - CVM on 03/06/2009.

Additionally, with regard to the amounts Petrobras compensated for, the Company reasserts that tax compensation derived from adopting tax calculation based on exchange variations (cash basis) was only R$1.14 billion, since using Interest on Equity benefits is a practice that is widely adopted by several Brazilian companies and there is no difference in interpretation regarding this issue.

Adopting the new system was a business management decision that is in line with the Company's governance, which always seeks to align the best interests of its shareholders (majority and minority), of the society, and of all other stakeholders.
