BLUEMOUNTAIN CAPITAL MANAGEMENT PROVIDES UPDATE ON PROCESS TO REPLACE PG&E BOARD OF DIRECTORS

Nomination Agreements Executed By 13 Highly-Qualified Candidates

NEW YORK, February 13, 2019 /PRNewswire/ – BlueMountain Capital Management, LLC (“BlueMountain”), a private diversified alternative asset management firm, today provided an update on its progress to nominate a full slate of new directors to replace the current Board of Directors (the “Current Board”) of PG&E Corporation (“PG&E” or the “Company”) (Ticker: PCG) in its entirety at PG&E’s Annual Shareholder Meeting scheduled to be held on May 21, 2019.

Nomination agreements have been executed by 13 highly-qualified candidates, who BlueMountain believes will enable PG&E to succeed in the long-term. To achieve this goal, BlueMountain conducted an exhaustive search process in close consultation with professional advisors, including reviewing more than 170 potential candidates, and conducting interviews with more than 60 of these individuals. BlueMountain has focused on selecting nominees with specific and relevant expertise in utility operations, safety, finance and corporate turnarounds, renewables, gas and corporate governance, as well as experience in California business and politics. Given the complexity of the situation and the level of engagement required by new board members, BlueMountain has also sought candidates able to commit considerable time to serving PG&E’s stakeholders without distraction. As previously announced, BlueMountain will publicly announce its slate of nominees no later than February 21, 2019.

BlueMountain is aware that PG&E has disclosed a company-run board refreshment process. However, in light of the issues facing PG&E and the utility, BlueMountain questions why PG&E would deem it appropriate that as many as five incumbent directors remain on the Board, or why incumbent directors, given PG&E’s track record during their tenure, should have a role in selecting new independent directors. BlueMountain believes that, under the current leadership, PG&E has demonstrated a clear lack of transparency with its stakeholders. BlueMountain also believes that the Company cannot rebuild public confidence or emerge swiftly from bankruptcy while any director nominated by the current leadership of PG&E remains at the helm.

BlueMountain is proud of its orientation as a long-term investor and, in those instances where it has more actively engaged, it has sought to take a collaborative approach. However, after continued discussions with a range of stakeholders, BlueMountain believes only a clean slate will be well positioned to enter the required and important discussions with key stakeholders in California, including legislators, regulators, claimants, employees, taxpayers, creditors and ratepayers. BlueMountain is committed to nominating directors who will promote transparency and work to effectively communicate the status of the business.

BlueMountain's slate, if elected, will owe fiduciary duties to all of PG&E's shareholders, which it believes includes taking reasonable steps to:

- recruit a new management team;
- identify new strategies to address PG&E's challenges, safety chief among them;
- oversee management in implementing those strategies; and
- exit bankruptcy on an expeditious basis.

Most importantly, BlueMountain believes that its slate will present the best opportunity to repair broken relationships and work collaboratively with all stakeholders, including wildfire victims, the state of California and its citizens, to address the challenges facing PG&E and work toward a sustainable outcome that does not threaten or impair the Company's valid obligations. BlueMountain strongly believes that its slate of nominees will best enable the Company to right itself and that shareholders and other stakeholders will agree.
