CGI announces executive change
Reiterates guidance

Edgar Filing: CGI GROUP INC - Form 6-K

Montreal, Quebec, June 26, 2002 -CGI Group Inc. (CGI) (TSX: GIB.A; NYSE: GIB) today announced that Satish Sanan will retire as vice chairman, US business engineering, effective today. Daniel Rocheleau, executive vice president and chief business engineering officer, who had responsibility for successfully managing the development of large outsourcing opportunities in Canada and Europe, will resume global responsibility for all of CGI's business engineering activities, including US, as an increasing proportion of these transactions are global in nature. Daniel will also direct a strong business engineering team in the US, which has been enhanced over the past year in order to meet the growing interest for outsourced IT and business process services.

Serge Godin, chairman and CEO said: "We appreciate Satish's commitment over the last year in managing our integration with IMRglobal. In addition to overseeing the transition of operations, Satish has played a key role in strengthening a team of highly talented people focused on developing large IT outsourcing opportunities in the US. We remain as excited as ever about the pipeline of opportunities that our members are pursuing, and we are comfortable with the financial guidance that we provided in April."
