Portugal to Become the Third Air Force to Equip its F16 Fleet with RADA FACE System

Friday December 19, 8:45 am ET

NATANYA, Israel, December 19 /PRNewswire-FirstCall/ -- - Contract value over $5 million

Following similar contracts with the Royal Netherlands Air Force and the Royal Belgium Air Force - RADA Electronic Industries Ltd. (NASDAQ: RADIF - News) announced today it has signed an agreement with the Portuguese Air Force to equip its new Mid Life Upgrade F-16 fleet with FACE. FACE is a flight data recorder aimed at fatigue monitoring, maintenance and safety. Two prototypes were installed successfully on board two Portuguese aircraft earlier this year. Deliveries of the serial production units are expected to start before year-end. The contract value exceeds $5 million.

"The Portuguese program validates the recognition FACE has earned as a standard equipment on board F16 A/B. We are encouraged by the continued satisfaction of our current FACE system customers and look forward to introducing FACE to other Air Forces" said Zvika Alon, Vice President for Business Development.

Commenting on the signing of the agreement, Chief Executive Adar Azancot said: "This program brings to a close a significant year for RADA. We achieved most of our operational and financial objectives and are poised to successfully complete our arduous 3 year turnaround program"

Correction -- RADA Electronic Industries Ltd.

Friday December 19, 10:41 am ET

In the news release, Portugal to Become the Third Air Force to Equip its F16 Fleet with RADA FACE System, issued earlier today by RADA Electronic Industries Ltd. (Nasdaq: RADIF - News) over PR Newswire, we are advised by a representative of the company that the headline should read "Portugal to Become the Third Air Force to Equip its F16 Fleet with RADA FACE System. Contract Value Over $5 Million." rather than "Portugal to Become the Third Air Force to Equip its F16 Fleet with RADA FACE System" as incorrectly transmitted by PR Newswire.
