Mark Bertolini Talking Points for Vice President Call

INTRODUCTION:

Good afternoon and thank you for joining me.

I know that some of you have been briefed about the news, but since not everyone has been brought up to speed, I wanted to take a moment and address this full group together.

I also wanted to make sure we are unified as we communicate this important news.

CVS Health and Aetna just issued a joint press release announcing that CVS Health has agreed to acquire Aetna.

This transaction is an historic moment for our company. It advances our vision of creating a consumer-centric health care experience. It will enable us to provide new value to our members so they can achieve their best health.

STRATEGIC VISION:

Together we plan to build an entirely new health care solution that will deliver a better health care experience, reduce costs, and improve access to trusted health care experts in communities across the country.

CVS Health and Aetna are committed to utilizing CVS retail locations as community health hubs for Aetna members and other consumers. These hubs will provide an entirely new health care solution dedicated to improving consumer wellbeing and answering questions about health, prescription drugs and health care benefits.

Aetna's presence in retail stores will allow us to develop trusted relationships with consumers in their local communities, helping us retain and grow membership.

Integration of CVS Health's pharmacy services and Aetna's clinical data, analytics and care management capabilities will improve medication adherence and care plan compliance while uncovering new ways to impact our members' health.

Aetna has a proud 164-year history. We have established our company as a proven leader in the health care marketplace. This combination will enable us to remain in this leadership position, providing greater value to the people we serve.

WHAT THIS MEANS FOR LEADERS:

Most important to realizing this vision is your continued commitment to the overall success of Aetna. This is a vertical integration. CVS is not a health insurer. They are relying on our leadership to continue to run this company well.

· CVS will also maintain the Aetna brand in the marketplace in recognition of the exceptional value we provide.

I am not going away. I will be a member of the board of the combined company. I will also be heavily involved in the integration planning process to position the combined organization for success.

NEXT STEPS:

While this is an exciting transaction, it is business as usual. Today's announcement is just the first step in the process, and we don't expect the deal to close until the second half of 2018.

Until then, Aetna and CVS will continue to operate in every respect as two independent companies. Even after the transaction closes, it will take time for the companies to completely integrate and for change to occur.

· We have prepared a robust communication plan that covers all our key audiences.

We will also invite all Aetna employees to join a town hall meeting at 2pm tomorrow, to give an overview of the transaction and address questions.

Finally, when you speak with employees, please make sure that you reinforce our messaging about the transaction. The three main points are:

1. This combination is a positive development. The proposed transaction is the next step on our journey and will allow us to better meet the needs of the people we serve.
2. CVS believes in the immense value of our people and capabilities. Aetna's talent is vital to the combined company's success. This transaction will offer many new exciting opportunities for Aetna employees.
3. No changes will take place immediately. The required approvals and integration planning can take many months to complete. During this time, we will continue to operate in every respect as separate companies.

We know that our employees will have a lot of questions about jobs and other topics, and we are committed to updating them as the plan progresses.

I ask that you be proactive – listen to your teams and let us know what is on their minds. It's also important that we all stay focused on the business – and encourage our employees to do the same.

I would also like to thank the many individuals who have worked on this transaction. This is an historic event for our company and for the health care landscape.

I am very proud of you all. Thank you for your help during this process. I look forward to speaking with you again soon about this exciting news.
